PRESIDENTS CONTINUING STATE TALKS

Cross Border Following Vows of Friendship Broadcast From Monterey.

SOLIDARITY STRESSED

Chief Executives Interrupt 7-Course Dinner To Bar 'Peace Feelers:'

(By Associated Press)

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN—The conferences of state which President Roosevelt and President Avila Camacho began in a gala setting at Monterey, Mexico, last night, continued north of the border today.

Avila Camacho was returning the only official visit ever made deep into his country by an American president, but security reasons forbade the immediate announcement of details.

Interrupting a lavish, seven course dinner, the two continental leaders delivered radio addresses at Monterey without disclosing in any manner the real reason for their dramatic meeting.

They spoke, instead, of differences between their two governments which already have been solved, of a joint solidarity in arms in a world at war, and of the values, now and for the future, of the good neighbor policy.

They dealt strictly in generalities and words of friendship and Mr. Roosevelt promised that "the government of the United States and my countrymen are ready to help "Mexico toward greater progress toward "the greatest possible measure of security and opportunity." He referred to the issue now apparently dead, created by Mexican expropriation of American-owned oil lands.

Mr. Roosevelt declared with studied emphasis:

"We recognize a mutual interdependence of our joint resources. We know that Mexico's resources will be developed for the common good of humanity. We know that the day of the exploitation of the resources and the people of one country for the benefit of any group in another country is definitely over."

A few minutes before, Avila Camacho had said, in a conciliа-

Tokyo Raid Story Reveals 80 Fliers Took Off Early To Avoid Detection, Knowing They'd Run Out Of Gas

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The eighty gallant U. S. airmen who carried out the spectacular and successful raid on Japan a year ago, were raised today to the rank of "super-heroes" by disclosure that they deliberately took off from the aircraft carrier Hornet 10 hours ahead of schedule knowing they would run out of gas.

The dangerous deviation from the original revolutionary plan to blast Tokyo with land-based bombers from a carrier was disclosed by the war department which said the fliers took to the air 800 miles instead of 400 from Japan because they feared they had been detected.

"The added distance to be flown naturally added greatly to the hazards of the mission," the war department said. "But there was not the slightest hesitation. General Doolittle (Major Gen. James Doolittle, leader of the raid) and his men were eager to take off.

"Whatever the chance of arriving at the airfields in China, they had at least reached a point where Tokyo and the other Japanese cities were within bombing distance."

Due to the extra flying time, none of the 16 North American "Billy Mitchell" bombers reached their assigned destinations in China. One plane landed in Soviet Russia and the crew was interned. The others made forced or crash landings in which all the planes were lost.

According to the war department, 64 of the 80 eventually reached safety after enduring hardships in China; five were interned in Russia; eight are presumed to be prisoners of the Japanese government; two still

SET TO CANCEL 41 PER CENT OF '42 TAX BURDEN

Dems, GOP Agree on Plan To Get Pay-as-You-Go Levy In Operation.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Republican and Democratic tax leaders in the house failed to agree on a compromise pay-as-you-go plan again today, but acceded to Speaker Sam Rayburn's request that they continue negotiations.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Democratic and Republican fiscal experts, in accord for the first time in three months, today submit a compromise tax program to house leaders canceling 41 per cent of the 1942 tax burden, with the additional proviso that income levies will not be further increased this year.

The compromise, worked out last night by three ranking Democrats and a like number of GOP members of the ways and means committee, will be given to Speaker Rayburn, Majority Leader McCormack and Minority Leader Martin in a special conference scheduled for 11 a. m. EWT.

Although terms of the hard-won agreement were a closely-guarded secret, International News Service was informed that the plan embraces the following provisions:

1. To get the nation on a pay-as-you-go basis, approximately $4,100,000,000 of the $10,000,000,000 tax liability for 1942 will be cancelled, or 41 per cent.

2. The cancellation will be achieved by computing the 1942 liability on the basis of the less severe 1942 rates and exemptions, a proposal first advanced by Rep.

Bankhead Urges Purchase of Space; ANPA Fears Subsidy.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Sen. John H. Bankhead (D.) Ala., today disclosed that he plans to introduce in the senate soon a bill to authorize expenditure of government funds for advertising in newspapers.

Under the plan, the government would have authority to spend money for advertising of bonds and for similar purposes.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Walter M. Dear, president of the American Newspaper Publishers association and co-publisher of the Jersey City (N. J.) Jersey Journal, declared today the ANPA believes government-financed advertising "smacks of subsidy" and would be "disastrous" to newspapers.

SEES R-30 JOB FINISHED JULY 1

State Engineer Reports Work Resumed; Completion To Be Seven Months Late.

Excavation work on the grade elimination project on U. S. Route 30-N west of the city had been resumed today, said Vance Grimes, Ashland division state highway engineer, who predicted that the project will be completed by July 1, seven months after the completion date called for in the contract.

Grimes said approximately 25 workers are moving earth at the west end of the project and taking up the old paving at the Mansfield end after several months of inactivity on the part of Lombardo brothers, contractor on the state job.

The division highway engineer said he didn't see how the work could be completed before June 30, even with good weather, although the state granted the contractor only a 90-day extension last fall when it appeared certain that the job wasn't going to be ready on time. The original completion date was Nov. 30.

Wet weather has prevented excavation work until recently and concrete couldn't be poured on the LONDON —(AP)— British and Canadian war prisoners who were shackled by the Germans last October still are in fetters, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons today, but he said he had received information that the "method of application" is less rigorous than heretofore.

Britain has unscackled the German prisoners she put in irons in retaliation.

3 MORE WEEKS

City's New Fire Pumper To Arrive Soon, Mayor Says.

A new 750 gallon fire pumper which the city has been trying to get since last summer will be delivered in about three weeks, Mayor W. J. Locke said today.

While in Columbus yesterday, the mayor said he was told that the pumper is undergoing final tests and soon will be ready for delivery by the Seagrove corporation, the manufacturer.

The pumper, which cost $9,851, will supplement existing fire equipment and will be paid for from funds derived from the city's new fire levy.

GOV. DICKINSON SERIOUSLY ILL

Physician Reports Michigan Chief Suffers Heart Attack.

LANSING, Mich.—(AP)—Dr. H. Allen Moyer, state health commissioner, announced today Luren D. Dickinson, 84-year-old former governor, had suffered a severe heart attack and was in a serious condition, in severe pain and under opiates.

Dr. Moyer, who has been Dickinson's personal physician for years, said he was called to the former governor's farm residence, near Charlotte after Dickinson suffered the attack at 7 a. m.

He said he found "no pulse at the wrist."

MAYOR SEEKS RELIEF PROBE

Asserts Administrative Costs High Here; Asks State To Send Investigator.

Asserting that the administration of relief in Mansfield and Richland county seemed "higher than appeared necessary with the reduced case load," Mayor W. J. Locke said today he had asked an investigator for the state welfare department to provide him with comparative figures for other areas so that he could determine whether the city is paying too much to maintain the relief office.

The mayor said the state investigator, probably Mrs. Marian Brucker of Shelby, would meet with him and Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff next Monday to go over the figures.

Administration of relief is in the hands of county commissioners who employ the director and his assistants. The city, however, pays its share of the cost, usually more than half, the mayor said.

Administrative expenses in March totaled $747 while non-administrative costs were listed at $224. Total cost of direct and transcient relief and medical services for indigents was $1,166.

Figures show that the amount expended for direct relief dropped from $1,591 in March, 1942, to $1,028 last month, while administrative costs were $736 in March, 1942, and $755 last month.

Mansfielder Posed As Lieutenant In Army, Police Claim

Taken into custody three days ago by Police Chief Meade K. Bates, Robert Paul Lambrecht, 27, of 272 West Fourth street, was to be taken to Cleveland today by a deputy U. S. marshal to face a charge of impersonating an army officer.

Charges were filed yesterday before a U. S. commissioner in Canton following an investigation by Chief Bates who said Lambrecht was masquerading as an army lieutenant as long ago as last September.

Bates said Lambrecht had never been in the armed forces, but the chief declined to reveal where he obtained the uniform or Lambrecht's reason for wearing it. Lambrecht was arrested Sunday night and held at the city jail while Bates made the investigation.

POINTS RISE ON HAMBURGER, CUT ON OTHER FOODS

Big Demand Responsible For Increase; Frozen, Dried Items To 'Cost' Less.

Hamburger will require more points while sausage and some other meats will require less when the Office of Price Administration issues its new meat list, a Washington dispatch said today. Point values on other foods—frozen and dehydrated — were rescued today effective at midnight.

The Richland county ration board had received neither the changes in point values or the dates when they will become effective. "We have been told that a new meat list will be forthcoming and that there will be changes" Lloyd Dillon, executive secretary said, "but we have not been advised just what the changes will concern or when they will be made."

Change in the point value of hamburger was occasioned by the fact, OPA spokesmen said, that it was cheaper point value now than other meats of similar quality. Point values of sausage, cold cuts and butter were among those due to be cut, they indicated.

Mansfield grocers reported that increased hamburger sales echoed the deduction of the Washington officials and that, in their opinion, many of those who formerly bought sausage, chops and other cuts were now buying hamburger more frequently.

Point values of all frozen fruits and vegetables and all rationed soups, canned, bottled and dehy-

GET GO-AHEAD

Housewives Told By OPA To Plan Canning as Usual.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The office of price administration today advised housewives to go ahead with canning programs on the same basis as last year since no changes are contemplated in sugar provisions for home canning.

To clear up confusion, officials said, all who plan home-canning are advised to make their preparations. If any changes in the program are forthcoming, they added, they will be refinements only and not of a basic nature.

Last season housewives applied to local boards for sugar allotments on the basis of one pound for each four quarts of canned fruit and in addition one pound for each member of the family. The same pattern will be followed this season.

Break Through Violent German Counter Blows

Allied Air Forces Bring Down 27 More Planes Swelling Axis Loss to 151 For Three Days; Hand-to-Hand Fight Climaxes Battle.

(By United Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's Eighth army broke through stubborn Axis counter-attacks to capture Enfidaville and all other initial objectives on the 50-mile road to Tunis, it was disclosed today, while the British First army again edged forward from the west.

The Allied offensive was supported by what American and British headquarters officially described as "the heaviest and most destructive blows yet struck against enemy air power in Tunisia."

Heavy artillery and aerial bombardment, blasts of mortar and machinegun fire and—at the showdown—bitter hand-to-hand fighting in which the Eighth army used knives and bayonets marked the first stage of the Allied offensive against the strong Tunis and Bizerte mountain defense lines.

The fury of the German counter-attacks, all of which were broken up by the rampaging Eighth army, left no doubt that Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel intended to fight to the bitter end.

But Allied forces, sparked by non-stop aerial attacks that brought down 27 more enemy airplanes on Tuesday for a three-day total of 151 destroyed, were striking from the west as well as through the Enfidaville sector on the south.

On the Medjez-El-Bab sector, less than 30 miles west of Tunis, the British First army under Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson, pushed forward again in local fighting and seized another town —Smidia—a few miles north of Medjez.

(Axis broadcasts reported fighting "with a ferocity never before attained in the North African campaign" was raging in the Enfidaville sector but acknowledged British gains which radio Algiers estimated at three miles.)

Four Axis counter-attacks were made almost as soon as Montgomery launched his first moonlight advance Monday night but Enfidaville and the important heights to the west, including Djebel Garci, were occupied early Tuesday.

Meanwhile, American and Brit-

BIRTHDAY BOMBS 'HONOR' HITLER

RAF Pounds Berlin, 2 Supply Ports Following Day Raids on Occupied Europe.

(By United Press)

LONDON — The Royal Air Force celebrated Adolf Hitler's birthday last night with raids on Berlin, Stettin and Rostock that cost 31 planes and followed through today with daylight attacks on occupied Europe.

Only a few hours after the night raiders returned to Britain, fighter planes swept across the southeast coast in relays and soon afterward distant explosions were heard from the direction of Boulogne and Calais in North France.

Last night marked the first time that British bombers have carried out raids in such force against three cities in Germany on a single night.

Settin and Rostock are supply ports for German armies on the Russian front and have large submarine-building yards. Settin, Germany's largest Baltic port, is connected with Berlin by a 100-mile ship canal.

Rostock presumably was just getting back in operation as a useful port after last April's three-day assault resulted in a complete stoppage of shipments to Norway, Finland and Russia.

Returning pilots reported huge fires were left burning in all three cities, especially Stettin, Germany's biggest Baltic port and target of the heaviest raid. The Berlin raid was comparatively light and was regarded here as a token attack in observance of Hitler's 54th birthday.

Village Residents Give Motorist a Scare; He Reports Crime.

FINDLAY, O. —(INS)— A birthday celebration for residents of nearby Mt. Blanchard had proven to be more than just an ordinary festivity today. A motorist who had passed through the village yesterday drove up to the sheriff's office in Findlay and declared a terrible crime was taking place.

An investigation showed about 250 villagers celebrated Der Fuehrer's birthday with a lifelike dummy of the leader of the "master race" which hung riddled with bullets as it swung and burned at the stake.

U. S. Sub Wahoo Sets Record, Destroys 37,000 Tons.

PEARL HARBOR —(AP)— The submarine Wahoo has returned from its second adventure in enemy waters with another eight ships sunk for a total of 13 in two successive patrols.

Naval officials said the eight bagged in the second patrol was a record number for a single patrol, but Lieut. Commander Dudley W. (Mush) Morton, skipper of the Wahoo described the exploit as "just cut and dried sinking of ships."

Besides the eight ships, totalling 37,000 tons, the Wahoo damaged a ninth and wrecked a trawler and two sampans. The sinkings all were achieved within one week's time. For the two patrols, the first in January, the total tonnage sunk was 69,000.

The dismissal of the committeemen precipitated a one-day strike of nearly 400 workers at the main plant of Thompson Products, incorporated.

Nine Days Left, $217,316 More In County War Loans

Still $2,428,510 from its $6,649,000 goal, the Richland county War Loan drive was moving ahead today with plenty of work yet to be done in the nine remaining days of the drive.

An increase of $217,316.50 subscribed by large companies and individuals yesterday brought the total to $4,220,489.95. The increase represents purchases by non-bank investors.

H. G. Brunner, co-chairman of the drive, said today that 69 per cent of the quota set for the public has been purchased, or $3,039,989.95 of the $4,425,000 goal. Bank purchases, held up until further bids may be made, amounted today to $1,180,500.

Bromfield Urges Volunteers To Ease Farm Labor Problem

By VIRGIL STANFIELD

Organization of volunteer farm workers as a means of solving the farm labor problem was urged by Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield in an address before the Mansfield Rotary club yesterday.

Probably Ohio's most outspoken critic of the administration of the war-time food and farm labor programs, Bromfield said attempts to help the farmer by issuing orders from Washington had failed and would continue to fail because farmers resent the "muddling interference."

The volunteer worker plan, which Bromfield said he had been working on with Gov. John W. Bricker and Chester Davis, federal food administrator, is based on the patriotic desire of city workers and boys too young for the draft to help produce food in their spare time.

A labor-recruiting office in every county seat would be directed by a local committee which would include the county agent, Triple-A chairman, labor leaders, and representatives of civic groups, women's organizations and the schools, he said.

Office and industrial workers with some spare time in the eve-

Presents Four-Point Peace Formula In League Lecture

By MARY DAVIDSON

"If we are to form a lasting peace following this war we must realize the complete interdependence of the world today, we must understand the nature of the peace to be made, we must realize the role of the individual in the peace and we must consider the plans which have failed in the past."

Mrs. Louise Leonard Wright, director of the national League of Women Voters, drew that peace formula for more than 200 members and guests of the Mansfield League of Women Voters at the First Presbyterian church last night as she spoke on the subject, "The United States, Isolationist or Internationalist."

She compared the present world situation with relation to the peace plans to a kaleidoscope through which each individual gets a different view of what is needed for a lasting peace. She pointed out that it is necessary for every person to recognize the basic facts of a world shrunken by modern

ARMY HONORS NEGRO SOLDIER

Gets Rank of Lieutenant at Unusual Ceremony In Liberia.

(By International News Service)

U. S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN LIBERIA—Twenty years of soldiering for Uncle Sam brought John T. Lyle, 48-year-old Lexington, Ky., negro, the coveted silver bar of a first lieutenant at an unusual ceremony in Liberia recently which came as a complete surprise to the recipient.

The courteous, hard-working sergeant major of a hospital unit attached to the U. S. army task force here, was summoned to headquarters by an "urgent" call from the adjutant, Captain Richard I. Choate of Galax, Va.

On his arrival Lyle was "attacked" by his close friend, Sgt. John Lewis of Moultrie, Ga., who began cutting the master sergeant's insignia from the sleeve of Lyle's shirt with a razor blade.

"I don't know who made you, but I'm going to be the man who breaks you," declared Sergeant Lewis maliciously.

It looked as though Sergeant Lyle was to be "busted" to the rank of buck private without being given any reason for the demotion.

Then Captain Choate, unable to suppress a wide grin, stepped forward and pinned the new, shiny silver bar on Lyle's collar. "Are you ready for the oath?" Choate asked.

Although astounded at the suddenness of his substantial promotion, Lyle was ready indeed. He raised his right hand proudly and pledged himself again to "support an defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies," just as he had done several times previous in two decades of service to the army.

The new lieutenant then had his right arm pumped vigorously by white officers and Negro enlisted men alike, who had heard of the scheduled ceremony and had come to headquarters to witness it.

Lyle enlisted for the first time July 24, 1917, at Fort Thomas, Ky., and spent nine months in France during the first World war with the 317th sanitary train. He was awarded the victory medal and two stars by virture of participating in the Allied actions at the Somme and Meuse-Argonne.

STREET REPAIR PROGRAM SET

State Confers With Officials at Bucyrus on Proposed Improvements.

BUCYRUS—Possibility of securing the resurfacing of Mansfield street and North Sandusky avenue by the state highway department was announced at city council meeting Tuesday night by Mayor William F. Whiteamire.

Mayor Whiteamire reported that he and Service Director Fred Judd had conferred on the proposed improvement last week and that state highway officials would be in the city tomorrow to make an inspection of the streets with a view of going ahead with the improvement.

Widening of Mansfield street, originally included in the improvement program, will need to be deferred for the duration because of material shortages, he said.

Service Director Judd who has resigned to accept other employment, effective May 1, expressed his appreciation of the co-operation given by council during his three and a half years of service and council members responded with thanks for his work and asked that the spring program be completely lined up before the work is turned over to his successor who has not yet been named.

Before leaving his duties the service director was authorized to advertise for bids and enter into a contract for a year's supply of crushed stone, coal, oil for street work, gasoline and filter material.

Because of labor problems, council adopted a resolution granting permission to the Ohio Fuel Gas company to read meters bi monthly replacing the present monthly reading, if the need becomes urgent.

THEATERS

Huge Chorus.

One of the largest all-male choral groups ever used for background vocalizing in a photoplay, worked at Universal studio under the direction of Musical Director Charles Previn for songs in Deanna Durbin's latest production, "The Amazing Mrs Holliday," now showing at the Ohio. Numbering 285 men, the group sang with Miss Durbin. No musical instruments beside a piano were used. Songs Miss Durbin sings include Puccini's "Visi D'Arte," "The Old Refrain," A Chinese Lullaby "Rock-A-Bye-Baby," and "Mighty Lak' A Rose."

"The Mad Russian."

In what is called one of the funniest pictures of the season, Bert Gordon, radio comedian, returns to the screen when Columbia's "Let's Have Fun" opens today at the Madison. More popularly known as "The Mad Russian," Gordon is aided and abetted in his antics by Margaret Lindsay and John Beal. The story opens with Beal, an unemployed actor, stating his intentions of going to work as a taxi driver in order to support his little daughter. However, Miss Lindsay is determined to place him in a Broadway musical production. She lands him the job, but one complication arises. Beal must pretend that he is unmarried. Coattraction at the Madison features the Dead End Kids and Little Tough Guys in "Keep 'Em Slugging."

Gay Comedy.

One of the season's gayest comedy films is now playing at the Park Veronica Lake and Fredric March are co-starred in "I Married A Witch," and the comedy packed into the film promises to keep the audience in an uproar. Miss Lake plays the part of the witch who was put to death in colonial days for practicing her evil on the pilgrims. She returns to modern life after 270 years, and casts a spell over March. At the time she enters the picture, March is about to be married and to be elected governor of his state. Miss Lake breaks both of these things up but in doing so falls in love with March. She promises she will see that he is elected governor, and keeps her word when the returns come in showing March with over 3,000,000 votes to none for his opponents. Co-attraction at the Park is "Get Hep to Love."

Time to Kill.

Lloyd Nolan again shows his skill as the dashing detective in "Time to Kill," story of the theft of a rare and valuable coin, now showing at the Ritz. The coin has been stolen from the collection of a wealthy old dowager. Nolan's search leads him to three murders and two beautiful girls—which, of course, is all right with him. "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" is the co-feature.

REVEAL HEROISM OF 80 RAIDERS

Reports Show Men Took Off Early, Knowing They'd Run Out of Gas.

are unaccounted for and one was killed.

While most of the Tokyo raid details have been told, little has been revealed until now about the hardships the heroes encountered following the bombing as their planes ran out of gas in the darkness over a strange land.

The original plan was to proceed by carrier to within 400 miles of Japan, bomb Japan at night and arrive at assigned fields in China at dawn.

The twin-engined land bombers were aboard the carrier Hornet (later sunk by the Japanese in the battle of Santa Cruz) when they suddenly spotted a Jap patrol vessel, which they eluded. While attempting to escape a second patrol vessel, they ran into a third.

Although the Jap ship was sunk, it was feared that the vessel might have warned Tokyo, although subsequent events showed this was not the case

Bravely the planes took off and smashed military objectives at Tokyo, Yokohama, Nagoya, Kobe and Osaka.

Instead of coming over Japan at night, the bombers skipped over the sea at heights of 15 to 20 feet and swept over their targets at noon on a bright day.

"One by one each objective of each plane was checked off," the war department said. "Now it was a tank factory, now a shipyard with a cruiser in it, now an airplane plant.

Their mission accomplished, the planes headed for China, but pilots and navigators knew by that time they would never reach their destinations.

"It was upon leaving Japan that the most hazardous part of the venture was reached," the account continued. "The scattered airplanes ran into a storm. Their already depleted gasoline reserves were drained further as they bucked the winds.

"Darkness was coming on and the unfamiliar terrain added to the difficulties. There were no light beacons or landing flares. Unable to go farther, there in the darkness 6,000 to 10,000 feet above a strange land, the great majority of the men bailed out."

Most of the men landed in unoccupied China and made their way to Chungking. Some landed in the occupied region, resulting in the capture of the eight. Others, some of them wounded, made their way to safety with the aid of friendly Chinese.

Seven were injured in crashes but survived. Corporal Leland D Faktor, of Plymouth, Ia., bailed out and although his parachute opened he was found dead in mountainous territory. The army said he may have suffered a secondary fall.

The war department explained that "preoccupation in bringing American fliers to safety was the principal reason why no detailed statement was issued after the raid."

"If the secret could always have been kept from the Japanese—which in the end was impossible—it would naturally have added to the tension with which Japan awaits the attacks that still lie ahead," the army said in conclusion.

Describes Take-Off Of Tokyo Raiders

(Editor's Note: Richard Tregaskis, ace INS correspondent and author of "Guadalcanal Diary," had a grandstand seat as Gen. Doolittle's planes took off from the Aircraft Carrier Hornet to bomb Tokyo.)

By RICHARD TREGASKIS
(INS Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE U. S. PACIFIC FLEET AT SEA—Shangri-La—(Delayed)—(INS)—It can now be revealed how a U. S. naval aircraft carrier launched the swift, two-motored army bombers which raided Tokyo, for the first time in history.

This amazing feat of army-navy collaboration was accomplished during a heavy storm within 800 miles of Tokyo in an area infested by Japanese patrol craft.

I witnessed the dramatic sight as 16 great, landlubbery planes—the celebrated B-25 type—weighing 12 tons each took off from the pitching, rolling deck of the carrier while great waves crashed on the bow of the ship and washed over the flight deck. This daring, ingenious idea was carried out in broad daylight.

(An official war department announcement in Washington identified the aircraft carrier from which the planes were launched as the U. S. S. Hornet, since lost in the battle of Santa Cruz in the South Pacific.)

These large army planes, with tricycle gear, never used in ordinary carrier operations, waddled along the deck, staggered into the air, nearly stalling and struggled for altitude over mountainous seas.

They were heavily loaded with incendiaries, Molotov breadbaskets and high explosives, besides extra gasoline for the long flight for Tokyo and beyond to the secret landing point.

Our sailors cheered loudly and waved farewell as the planes passed so close we could see some of the gunners busy in the transparent turrets. We could also see the star and insignia letters, "U. S. Army," under the wings.

Before the last plane disappeared, our ship swung sharply in a U-turn toward home. The carrier followed now and our task force was hightailing, full speed for home, with all bombers launched with no casualties.

TOURIST CLUB HEARS MISS VIRGINIA CHEW

Mansfield Public Librarian Speaks at Women's Club On "Those Amazing Russians"; Mrs. Frank Leavitt Second Speaker.

MISS VIRGINIA CHEW of the Mansfield Public library was guest speaker for members of the Tourist club when they met at the Women's Club Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. D. C. Cole as hostess. Miss Chew chose "Those Amazing Russians" as the subject for her talk, which she gave in the form of a resume of books.

The first book reviewed by Miss Chew was "Mission to Moscow," by Ambassador Davies, a personal report on Russia during the years 1936 to 1941. "Shooting the Russian War" by Bowike-White was an American photographer's experiences in Russia before and after the Nazi invasion.

"All Out on the Road to Smolensk," by Caldwell, the third book reviewed by Miss Chew, is the first eye-witness story of Russia at war to appear in book form in this country. An American reporter's account of his experiences during the winter of 1941-1942 was told in "Only the Stars Are Neutral," by Reynolds.

"Blind Date With Mars," by Moats, and "One World," by Willkie, were the last books which Miss Chew mentioned. She discussed the lives of the authors and their experiences in Russia. By means of the books, she gave an interesting study of the Russian people.

Miss Chew told of Russian women at war, Polish refugees, communism, languages, decrease of illiteracy, libraries and various type of people. At the time of Nazi invasion, Russia was believed to be destined to defeat, but has proved itself to be a strong ally.

The Tourist club's second speaker was Mrs. Frank Leavitt, who told of "Famous Women of Today." The lives and work of the six most interesting women of the present day were described in detail by the speaker, beginning with Eleanor Roosevelt, noted author, lecturer, correspondent, traveler and social worker.

Madame Chiang Kai-Shek was pictured as the first lady of China, gracious, intelligent, prominent in relief work and politics of United China. Oveta Culp Hobby, director of WAAC, was a newspaper woman, lawyer, politician, civic welfare worker and author.

Mrs. Leavitt told of Mildred Helen McAfee, director of the WAVES, who is a professor, dean of women, president of Wellesley college and a writer. Ruth C Streeter, the fifth woman discussed by Mrs. Leavitt, is the director of the Women's Reserve of the Marine Corps.

The last woman discussed by Mrs. Leavitt was Sister Elizabeth Kenny of Queensland, Australia, noted for outstanding service to children and her invaluable contributions to the treatment of infantile paralysis victims. Her work is indorsed by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and the American Medical association.

The program committee for the coming year was appointed. It consists of Mrs. Charles Ray, chairman; Mrs Dimon Herring and Mrs G J. Kochenderfer Mrs. J. W. Galbraith, Mrs. Frank Hartman and Mrs B W. Forkner were named as a membership committee.

The club's next meeting will be a picnic in June at the cabin of Mrs. Harry Bowers on Park avenue west road. Assisting Mrs. Bowers will be Mrs. H. L. Bilbert, Mrs. C V. Gates and Mrs. Grant Ward.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

My father went through the camouflaged door into the adjoining suite, and for three minutes which seemed hours I waited in the bedroom for Katharine in my sitting room to finish saying goodbye to Hal Meredith, with the half-mirthful reflection that Hal's adieux, like farewell appearances of theatrical stars, had a tendency to repeat themselves

If Jack Bickett, Katharine's husband, had let her share his perils in South America, Hal Meredith would have fallen naturally into his niche as a romantic memory never come into her orbit again.

Katharine came through the door at last, flushed and breathless as if she had been running, instead of taxing her brain with the problem of dealing with Hal kindly, but without giving him any encouragement

"Well, he's gone!" she said after a pause, "and I do not think I'll ever see him again"

I did not answer at once, for I guessed that she had not finished what she wished to say

"Why, why is it," she went on, "that Jack should remain so rigidly aloof from me while Hal is always within call? Doesn't Jack realize what he is doing to me; how racked with terror for him I am? Your father says he knows Jack's whereabouts, but that doesn't mean Jack is in a place of safety where those fiends hunting for him can't get after him"

"As it happens dear girl that is just what it does mean," I said quietly.

She sprang to her feet with a bound and stood above me, gripping my shoulder tightly

"Explain that quickly" she said "I—I can't stand much more of this"

"My father has just given me permission to tell you this," I said "Jack is at the hideaway has been there for a long time. He left as my father told us, after his first arrival, but instead of staying away, as my father led us to believe, he returned within twenty-four hours. He is now there working with Professor Diswell on his experiment He is in no danger whatever"

Has Suffered Tortures.

"And they have let me suffer the tortures of the damned," she said, then let her hands fall listlessly by her side.

"I suppose your father had his reasons," she said 'But now, surely he will let me see Jack."

"I cannot promise you that, Katharine," I told her, piognant sympathy making my speech unsteady, "for the decision does not rest with me"

"Oh!" she said faintly, infinite disappointment and heartache in her voice

"But," I said quickly "now that father has consented to your knowing that Jack is in the hideaway, they may have decided you can see him"

Into Katharine's beautiful brown eyes crept distinct resentment

"They're pretty high-handed, those two, don't you think?" she queried

I knew that it would not be clubby of me to agree with her, but I too had felt the same resentment for a long time

"They surely are," I told her 'but in justice to Jack I must tell you, with emphasis, that the only reason he has insisted you must not know his whereabouts was his fear that you would be put in grave danger if you knew where he was"

"And of course" she rejoined with a short, bitter laugh, "his fragile, spineless wife must be protected from danger' Only brave, strong wilderness women can share danger with their men'

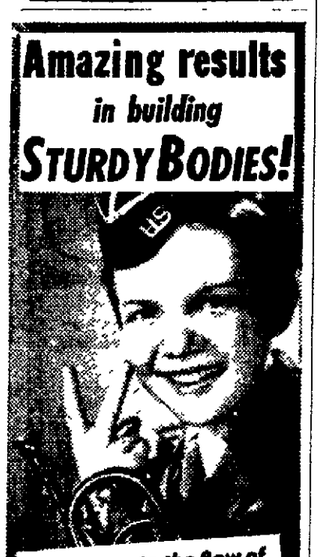
Amazing results in building STURDY BODIES!



1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach

2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

YOUNG people, especially those of grammar and high school age, are prone to be deficient in stomach digestive juices and red-blood

A growing-person who is operating on a 65 to 70% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped.

In such cases Nature needs extra help. Organic troubles or focal infection, if they exist, must be corrected Tissue foods must be digested and rich, red-blood must be present to build sturdy bodies

S S S Tonic is especially designed to build-up blood strength when deficient .. and to promote those stomach juices which digest the food so the body can make proper use of it in tissue building and repair

These two important results enable the body to make use of the food as Nature intended. Thus you may gain a keen appetite . . firm flesh . . . body energy . . . mental alertness!

Build Sturdy Health so that the Doctors may better serve our Fighting Forces

Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits S S S Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it gets results—that's why so many say "S S S Tonic builds sturdy health—makes you feel like yourself again." At drug stores in 10 and 20 oz sizes © S S S Co.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, April 22.

The lunar transits operating on this day may be interpreted as rather inimical to any definite progress or profitable production There may be a threat of sudden upheaval or disruption with rancor, enmity and probably emotional outbursts that might precipitate regrettable effects

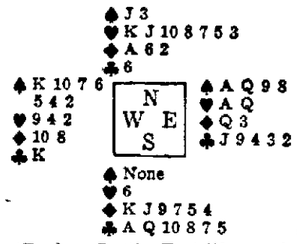
Those whose birthday it is may find themselves beset by disruptive or radical forces, precipitating sudden reversals of unpredictable misfortunes, affecting business relations as well as domestic, social or emotional affairs.

A child born on this day may possess some very positive traits and abilities, with determination, will power and force.

RETURN FROM VISIT.

Mrs Elizabeth Guenther and daughter, Elverda, have returned from Bowling Green, where they spent several days with Raymond Guenther and family.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer South East-West vulnerable)

If East had stuck in a spade bid, which West supported, and West finally leads a spade against South's 5-Diamonds, doubled by East how should the declarer play this hand?

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

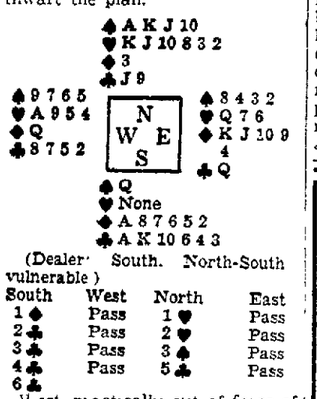
BY

Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

FORESEE THE PLAY

On many an occasion, it is possible for the defender, who has listened carefully to the bidding and then drawn logical conclusions from it, to figure out just how the declarer is likely to play for his contract This applies most emphatically when there has been a lot of bidding, showing the distribution of the declarer's hand and the dummy Use of such mental processes can sometimes steer the opening leader away from the most disastrous lead to the one opening which promises best to thwart the plan.



(Dealer South. North-South vulnerable)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	5 ♣	Pass

West practically out of force of habit led his heart A, and the contract became unbeatable That, of course, was ruffed, setting up the K To get rid of five losing diamonds, South led the A and then the 2 ruffing with the dummy's club 9 Four spades and the heart K brought discards of the remaining diamond losers, leaving South only his trumps One of these he had to lose to West, but that was all, so he was home.

North's repeated bids of hearts followed by one of spades should have shown West he had at least six hearts and only four spades South's first rebid of clubs showed that his two suits were at least five cards long, and the second rebid of them showed that both were at least six-carders It should have been clear that South was void of spades or hearts possibly both, but almost certainly of hearts, which North rebid. Hence, the odds were heavy that South would trump the heart A and have the K then set up in dummy for a diamond discard—just what happened

On bidding like South's, the most damaging lead usually is a trump, to take out of dummy one which probably is needed to ruff a loser in the side suit. If West had led a club, South would have been beaten, as he could never have got rid of all of his losing diamonds unless he was able to discard one on the heart K or else ruff two of them Both of those possibilities would have been removed by leading a club instead of a heart

SLIGHT GAINS DISTRIBUTED OVER MARKET

Nation's Power Output For Week Ended April 17 Shows Increase.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Fractional gains were well distributed through the stock market list today but a few leaders extended yesterday's moderate decline.

Improved at a quiet opening were Deere, Public Service of N. J., N. Y. Central, Chrysler and General Electric. Anaconda, U. S. Steel and Pennsylvania were a shade lower.

Of interest to holders of Electric power and Light shares was the report of Edison Electric institute showing power output for the week ended April 17 at 3,916,794,000 kilowatt hours compared with 3,882,467,000 in the preceding week and 3,307,700,000 in the like 1942 period.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

No License — Preston A. Robertson, Wadsworth R. D. 2, was fined $5 and costs in Ashland police court yesterday for failure to have an operator's license, state patrolmen reported. He was arrested on U. S. Route 42.

Speaks Today—Miss Mary Geyer, religious education teacher in Mansfield public schools, will be guest speaker at the East Mansfield Presbyterian church today at 7:30 p. m. Miss Geyer will speak on "The Message of Easter."

Time Changed — The First Congregational church Holy Week communion service and reception of new members scheduled to be held at the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held at 8 p. m. today instead of 7:30 p. m. as previously announced.

Plans Program—The Mansfield Alumni club of Phi Delta Theta fraternity will hold a founder's day program at 8 p. m. Friday at the home of W. E. Slabaugh, 589 Andover road. Fred A. Hunt, Toledo, province president, will be the speaker. Fred Hout is president of the club.

Dog Bites Child — A dog bit six-year-old Jimmy Daugherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Daugherty, 396 West Fifth street, on the right wrist as the boy returned from school yesterday, his mother told police. Officers found that the dog, owned by a Sycamore street resident, had not been vacinated against rabies, and the animal was ordered tied.

Hold Young Driver—A 17-year-old Mansfield youth was to go into county juvenile court this afternoon on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol. The young driver was arrested last night by police after the laundry truck he was driving allegedly struck a car driven by M. H. Harrah, 83 Rowland avenue, at Fifth and Mulberry streets.

Driver Fined — Clyde A. Pittman, 51, of 518 Woodland avenue, was fined $25 and costs this morning after he pleaded guilty in municipal court to a charge of failing to stop after an accident. Police said Pittman's car collided with a parked automobile Saturday night on Springmill street. The court suspended $15 of the fine on condition that Pittman pays for the repair of the other car, owned by Andrew Bauer, 44½ Springmill street.

Recover Car — A car reported stolen last night from 17 West Arch street was recovered shortly after 7 a. m. today in Chillicothe where two 14-year-old Ashland, Ky., boys are held in connection with the theft, Mansfield police were informed. The car belongs to Victor Nickelvich, of the Arch street address, who reported it missing at 5:45 a. m. today. The youths will be returned here to face charges.

FARMERS BUY 16,500 TREES FOR PLANTING

Ruralites Purchase Them So They Can Earn Maximum AAA Payments.

Richland county farmers have purchased more than 16,500 trees during the past three weeks to help them earn maximum Triple-A farm payments for soil conservation practices on their land.

Since the end of March the county Triple-A has received 16,850 trees and all but 225 of them have been distributed to AAA participants who paid $6 a thousand for them. Payment for the trees will be taken out of the government money the farmers receive for complying with the sail-building requirements.

Varieties of trees included locust, Norway spruce, poplar, oak, ash, red pine, and shortleaf pine. The trees, properly distributed on poor land, help to prevent erosion and rebuild the soil.

With lime and fertilizer difficult to obtain, Howard Stone, member of the county Triple-A committee, said farmers must pay more attention to their soil conservation practices to earn their maximum payments this year under the government program.

He suggested harvesting grass seed for use in the county, contour or strip farming, clipping pastures to kill weeds, and the use of sod waterways in low places in fields to prevent heavy rain from cutting deep gullies.

Limited amounts of lime and fertilizer for pasture lands will be available this year, Stone said. Cost of the materials will be deducted from the farmers' AAA payments.

With farm prices back at high levels, emphasis is being placed on soil improvement and the production of more food crops in the new government farm program.

In addition to the trees sold through the AAA office, the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association recently obtained 30,000 small trees from the state conservation commission for free distribution to county farmers who agree to plant them where they will afford improved wildlife habitat.

31st Mansfield Girl Scout Troop Holds First Meet

Among the numerous activities related to Girl Scouting which will take place this week is the first meeting of the 31st troop to be organized in Mansfield.

The troop recently organized at Carpenter school is made up of 20 fourth and fifth grade girls. Under the leadership of Mrs. Charles Mertler, Mrs. James Keith and Mrs. Arthur Rice, the scouts will hold their first meeting Wednesday afternoon at the school.

Other activities scheduled for Wednesday are the second meeting of Brownie leaders. They will discuss troop organization and procedures when they meet at 1:30 in the Girl Scout office. Troop 8 meeting Wednesday afternoon at Western school will receive their scout pins. Miss Eleanor Bond, executive secretary, will present pins to 31 girls. Mrs. H. E. Day and Mrs. J. H. Sanford are leaders of this group.

Thursday at 2:30 p. m. intermediate leaders will meet to discuss troop organization and programs.

There are 582 East Indian states, many no bigger than a plantation.

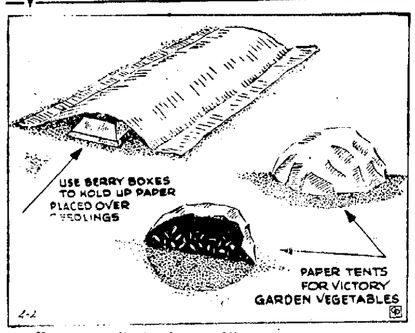
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Emergency Protection for Victory Garden Plants.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Ass'n.

An unexpected late frost can do much damage in the Victory garden after the tomatoes and other tender plants have been set out. The foresighted gardener will be prepared for just such an emergency by having at hand protective material to place over the plants when a late-season frost threatens.

As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, individual plants can be covered over with ordinary small berry boxes or if there are not enough of these boxes available a few may be placed at intervals along the row to hold up sheets of newspaper or wraping paper for plant protection purposes.

Plant protectors of the type illustrated may also be purchased at seed stores or nurseries. These tent-like covers make ideal individual hot houses for Victory vegetables as well as serving as guards against late frosts. These paper tents can be used to cover young plants of tomatoes, melons, peppers and other tender vegetables. Not only do these tents protect the plants against frost but also against wind, hail storms and certain insects.

Keep such protectors in place until the plants have grown tall enough to reach the top of the covers. At that time the covers should be slit two ways across the top to allow the tips of the plants to emerge.

WAR CALLS COME FIRST!

If Your Call is Delayed, Remember War Calls Come First!

That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time

THE lovely entertainer goes to Panama to cheer our troops. Soldiers want to enjoy a Coca-Cola with her and talk. A pretty girl and a Coke . . . just like home.

In Iceland, the news told how troops had a good-natured fight to get the first Cokes available. Such are the stories from our fighting men everywhere.

To mean so much, a drink must have something—in taste, in goodness and in true refreshing qualities. Just to sip ice-cold Coca-Cola is to find all those things. Yes, all the difference between something really refreshing and just something to drink.

Maybe it's a make-shift dressing room, but Uncle Sam's soldiers have given it a homelike touch . . . fresh flowers and a frosty bottle of Coke. Who could ask for more?

Even with war and so many Coca-Cola bottling plants in enemy-occupied countries, our fighting men are delighted to find Coca-Cola being bottled in so many places all over the globe.

The best is always the better buy! 5¢

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—Two generals of the quartermaster department have admitted recently that there has been waste food in army messes and, on the basis of a recent visit to Camp Nameless in the status of guest, I will undertake to corroborate them. The name and location of the camp I cannot mention lest I violate hospitality but my host of the occasion has said he does not object to a discussion of the shocking waste of fine food which we saw there.

Pegler

There were, I should say, about 200 soldiers in the mess, served by waiters who were enlisted men, and the meal consisted of pot roast, string beans, creamed peas, mashed potatoes, cole-slaw, milk, coffee and cocoanut custard pudding. There was much more than plenty for all hands, most of whom had high-power appetites and each man had about a quart of milk. My young friends at the table said they often had steaks and that they had seen some waste of excellent beef in a section of the country where the civilians found it almost impossible to get any and where the little they could get was scrawny, stringy, juiceless meat with no more flavor than a boiled bathmat.

However, such waste of steak consisted mainly of plate-leavings which is to say that no whole steaks were thrown away untouched and possibly this is an unavoidable loss although civilian authorities have been raising quite a fuss with restaurants for over-serving and with the guests themselves for failure to eat everything set before them and demanding smaller portions.

There were considerable leavings on the plates of the soldiers in this mess on this occasion which my host said was typical but that was a trivial waste by comparison with the wanton destruction which occurred as the waiters advanced along the aisle between the two rows of tables after the meal, dumping huge quantities of untouched food from the serving bowls into garbage cans which they shoved along before them.

On each table there were two or three large bowls at least half full of mashed potatoes above and beyond requirements of the diners, all made with rich milk and first class butter and all that was thrown into the cans along with large quantities of string beans, creamed peas, slaw and custard and many stacks of a dozen or so slices of fine white bread which, surely was not contaminated and would not have spoiled if returned to the bread box for the next meal.

The only meat that I saw thrown away was that which was left on the plates, the surplus on platters apparently being returned to the kitchen possibly to be made into hash, although I am not sure it was so used. I just observed that it was not heaved into the garbage along with the other untouched food which could have fed a considerable number of civilians without depriving the soldiers.

The soldiers, themselves, were conscious of this waste and deplored it although not, of course, to the extent of complaining. For, after all, the camp management was none of their business and suggestions might have been resented by their officers. They said, moreover, that they had seen similar waste on other posts and that the only effort at conservation which they had observed had been a rule in one place which required each man to help himself to no more than he could eat. If he left food on his plate he invited a mild form of punishment.

The noncom in command of the preparation and serving of the meals said that all opened but unfinished bottles of milk were emptied into containers. This milk was used for cooking but that, and the surplus beef and the butter seemed to be the only salvage. The rest of the overset food was gathered at a central point with the garbage from other messes on the post and carried away by a contractor to be fed to the pigs on neighboring farms. Great pitchers of coffee were poured away.

There may have been a few absentees from this meal but if so they were not enough to justify the army excuse recently heard that waste is caused by the practice of cooking for the full strength of a command rather than for the number actually on hand. It was a flagrant case of reckless mismanagement and in a region where the army's food comes off the top of the whole regional supply and comes off first, leaving the civilians to shop for and worry over a very insufficient remainder.

I am sorry not to be able to identify the post and unit but perhaps it will be just as well if each command which is throwing to the swine good food which civilians are doing without will take this description and criticism to itself and act accordingly.

IN HOLLYWOOD-- By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—A movie prop man would make a swell wife for any woman.

His job is to keep everything on a set neat and dusted. If an actor gets a spot on his clothes, he comes running with cleaning fluid. He makes furniture shine, windows glisten and pictures hang straight. He can build a fire, set a hen, lay a table, feed a cat, make friends with a dog, plant a garden, cook a meal.

Tommy Plews is such a guy. And he would like the fact that he knows all these things kept from his wife. She might get ideas.

Coons

Tommy and his cohorts receive too little credit for their work in a picture. They are the ones who make film domiciles so attractive that your sisters and your cousins and your aunts go home from the theater drooling with envy. Or, if the locale is not the upper classes, they know exactly what to leave off the set. Thus, any good housewife is immediately aware of the fictitious state of affairs.

* * *

Tommy also knows a few tricks that Mrs. Joseph Doakes wouldn't care about. How to catch 10,000 flies an hour. What will make a caterpillar wiggle. How to put bromo seltzer in cider to make it look like champagne. That isinglass can appear to be ice in a bucket. That cotton wool on a glass of ginger ale resembles beer. These are all part of his racket.

Most prop men are married. But there is an unwritten law among them: At home, they never lift a finger.

Seymour Felix, the man with the best telephone numbers in the world, has an unique method of choosing chorus girls for his dance sequences.

In the first place, he doesn't believe in lining up the damsels. Instead, he sits at a desk and asks each one to walk toward him, turn, smile, and walk away. And, though he looks interested in the first three steps of this routine, he only really puts the old brain in high when the girl has her back to him.

"The way they come toward me means nothing," he says. "For they all want to make a good impression. They need a job or they wouldn't be there. I do my observing, therefore, when they leave me, when they are at ease and the tension is gone."

This must be effective, for Felix has staged dances for Flo Ziegfeld and other legitimate producers, as well as winning an Oscar in pictures for his work in "The Great Ziegfeld."

WPB GETS SET TO CUT OUT ALL CIVILIAN FRILLS

Will Simplify Consumer Goods So That Parts Will Be Interchangeable.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Drastic simplification of consumers goods—elimination of all frills but stopping short of complete uniformity—probably will be undertaken soon, reliable sources said today.

The far-reaching program is on the desk of War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson. Action on it is expected after Arthur Whiteside, new head of WPB's office of civilian supply, takes over his duties later this week.

Simplification of industrial products already has been undertaken by WPB on a small scale. Such products include baby carriages, farm machinery, feminine apparel, kitchen and household articles, hand tools, incandescent, fluorescent and other electric discharge lamps, paper and plumbing and heating equipment.

Observers saw in the plan to simplify consumers goods an effort by WPB to placate criticism that civilian needs are being sacrificed unnecessarily to meet overenthusiastic military demands. Nelson recently took cognizance of this by announcing that some civilian products now frozen by WPB orders, such as refrigerators, would be released.

An advisory group of the office of civilian supply has submitted to the board a list of consumers goods and a detailed report on existing supplies and demand.

One of the foremost objectives of the proposed new program, officials said, is the conservation of manpower. As a result of 85 simplification orders issued by the WPB in 1942, it is estimated that 10 per cent of the manpower in the industries involved was released for war work. Comparable results are expected from the proposed program.

Simplification as outlined in the proposed program will endeavor to make repair parts for essential goods interchangeable. There has been some effort to make military repair parts interchangeable. Under the new plan, flashlights, for example, would be simplified and standardized so that any flashlight battery will fit any flashlight.

The simplification program hopes to achieve its aims by cutting out unnecessary sizes, types and models of a wide variety of industrial and consumer products, it was understood.

REPORT GIVEN

School Attendance Up 91% For Month of March.

Mansfield public schools had an average attendance of 91.5 per cent in March with the Woodland and Prospect schools showing the best reports with an average of 95 per cent.

The Brinkerhoff school was second with 94.9 per cent and the Western Avenue school third with an attendance of 94.3 per cent. The city's 13 schools had 2,377 pupils who were neither absent nor tardy during the month.

Only 43 cases of truancy were reported, 13 of them at Senior high school, but tardiness cases jumped to 1,048 cases. Six of the schools had no truancy. They were Brinkerhoff, Bushnell, Newman, Prospect, Western avenue, and Woodland.

Most of the cases of tardiness were in four schools with Senior high topping the list with 380 cases. John Simpson junior high was next with 228. Bowman had 109 and Johnny Appleseed, 106. The Brinkerhoff school had only three cases and the Woodland school, eight.

MARRIAGE MART BILL DEFEATED

Ohio House Beats Measure Aimed at Tightening Up License Requirements.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—A bill to tighten Ohio's marriage laws and eliminate "marriage marts" was defeated by the house of representatives yesterday after opponents criticized the bill as a measure which "would breed evil" by encouraging common-law marriages.

The vote was 63 to 45 for the bill, but it lacked the necessary majority vote.

The bill would have required issuance of licenses for all marriages, 30-day proven residence by one of the parties to the marriage in the county in which the license is issued; prohibition of sale of certificates with the licenses, and a fine of from $100 to $1,000 for issuing a license illegally to a person under 21.

Rep. Clifton I. Caryl, R., Union, said present license laws were adequate and that "this is one of the wickedest pieces of legislation we have ever had here."

Rep. Harry E. Schwall, R., Fulton, attempted to amend the 30-day requirement, but his amendment was defeated 44 to 30. He said the requirement would "breed evil and do much to encourage common-law marriages."

Up and Down THE STREET

It may be more like winter than spring, but a robin which apparently has located summer quarters atop the Mansfield-Leland hotel serenades workers every morning in the downtown section around Park avenue west and Walnut streets. The bird sings from a cornice of the building and can be heard plainly above the traffic din. Architecture of the hotel would make it easy for the birds to find a sheltered nesting place at the top, and the way this robin stays close to the building indicates there's a nest up there.

The dog warden and Ohio Public Service linemen were on an errand of mercy yesterday for a cat! Lind avenue residents deplored the plight of a white cat which turned out to be a pole sitter after it mounted a telephone pole at the rear of 220 Lind avenue Friday night. They telephoned Dog Warden William Miller, who in turn, notified the rescue squad of the utility company. Miller fed the rescued animal milk and hamburger, from his own rations, before taking it to the home of Mrs. Marie Meechan, humane officer, where it awaits offers of good homes.

Young Dick Wendland, 191 West Fourth street, may not be Mansfield's ping pong champion, but until someone better comes along he'll do. Last night at the Y. M. C. A. the youth, a pupil at John Simpson, was playing a game with a friend, and several cadets from Harrington Air Service noted his skill. One cadet challenged him to game. Wendland defeated his first opponent easily, and this was followed by challenges from 10 or 12 other by-standers. He took them all on, and was the victor in every contest.

'ASSURANCES' SOUND FISHY

Press Unimpressed By Vague Promises 'Something Will Be Done' About Ban.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—A burst of official but vague assurances that something would be "worked out" to modify President Roosevelt's ban on normal newspaper coverage of the international food conference fell considerably short today of assuring reporters that the bars were down.

Chairman Marvin Jones of the American delegation issued through the White House a statement expressing the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt's ban on reporters was facetious and suggesting that it would not stick. He said the president had not expressed to him any views as to publicity at the conference.

Jones as United States chairman will, in effect, control the conference which convenes at the Homestead, a Hot Springs, Va., resort hotel, on May 18.

On March 19 Mr. Roosevelt was asked at his press conference whether newspapermen would be permitted to cover the proposed food conference. He replied that he hoped not and there was considerable laughter among the assembled reporters, most of whom thought the president was having a little joke.

Several days later Mr. Roosevelt advised Director Elmer Davis of the office of war information and White House Secretary Stephen T. Early that newspapermen would be barred from the conference proceedings. Both Davis and Early are understood to have protested without avail.

The state department subsequently confirmed the secrecy reports with announcement that newspapers would be permitted to observe and cover only the opening and closing conference sessions.

FEMALE LABOR BILL RECEIVES SENATE O. K.

Organized Labor Announces It Will Call For Voter Referendum.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The female labor bill, most controversial issue in the 95th Ohio general assembly, finally had the senate's approval today and was before the house for consideration.

The house leadership estimated at least two weeks would elapse before the bill could be brought up for a vote.

Meanwhile organized labor, dissatisfied with the provisions for relaxing the laws regulating employment of women and minors, announced the bill might be subjected to a referendum.

In this event operation of the legislation would be delayed until the state's voters expressed their approval or disapproval in the November election.

The measure, approved in a 19 to 13 vote late yesterday by the senate, would be effective only during the war emergency, or not later than April 1, 1945. Its principal provisions follow:

1. Establish a maximum work week of 50 hours for women and minors in contrast to the present limit of 45 hours in factories and 48 in most other industries;

2. Permit war industries to exceed the 50-hour maximum in emergencies, subject to restraint by the state directors of industrial relations and health if the excess hours were injurious to the health of women;

3. Allow a 10-hour day in comparison with the customary 8 hours;

4. Lower the age limit for employment of minors more than 48 hours a week, reducing that of women from 21 to 18 and that of boys from 18 to 16; permit such minors to work any hours of the night, and

5. Legalize the employment of women in occupations now barred to them, such as taxi driver, railroad section hand, driver of delivery trucks, freight handling and freight elevator operators.

Advocates of the legislation, including the Ohio Manufacturers association and Ohio council of retail merchants, contended it was needed to overcome a manpower shortage and increase war production.

Senator P. H. Rogers, Grafton, representing the 27th-29th district which includes Richland county, voted for the female labor bill.

WAR VET DIES

Clarence Jonson, 48, Had Been Ill For Three Weeks.

LUCAS—A veteran of World War I who served overseas for 11 months, Clarence Jonson, 48, of southeast of here, died last night in the Veterans hospital at Brecksville. He had been ill for three weeks.

A former railroader he came here from Crestline 20 years ago. He was a member of the Maccabee lodge at Crestline.

Playing with borrowed clubs, News-Journal A-league golfer Pfc. Johnny Kleshinski really is hitting the ball these days down in Puerto Rico. Here is one soldier the golfers won't be taking picks at when the war is over.

But John is right there on the scene, so let's let him tell the story:

Dear Rex: Now that I'm started. I'm stalled already. Seems every time I sit down to write a letter, my mind goes over the hill.

A little over a week ago I got up enough nerve to go to the 1st Sgt. and ask permission to see the B. C. about playing a little more golf.

Since the golf course is so close, he gave me every Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday afternoon off, and from 4:30 until dark if I wish.

He also gave me a membership with paid back fees, which cost me 25 cents a month. Caddie fees are 25 cents for nine holes.

It's a tough course, and only nine holes. Saturday afternoon I had a 35, and Sunday a 34. The sergeant at the club lets me use his Bobby Jones irons and Byron Nelson woods.

Yesterday afternoon we had a few boys for a gallery. A friend of mine from Cleveland, who is also a good friend of Al Leach, the former national publinks champion, was playing with me. His name is Tony Iarussi, and he is a tough customer. I had him one down each day.

The course is operated by the army, and played mostly by officers.

Last Friday night Mel Alacca and I went dancing to the music of Raphael Munoz, another Xavier Cugat.

It sure is swell to dance outdoors in the moonlight. Especially with the beautiful senoritas of the tropics. Adios amigo.

As ever,
Johnny.

P. S.—I had 12 pars, two birdies, one eagle, and of course three bogeys in the two days I played. Par is 70 and I had 69. Tony had 72.

Coach Happy In War Job

Hopes His Gridders Get Munitions He Makes.

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— That studious-looking, bespectacled young man laboring so industriously at the Wayne Iron Works, is no less a person than George Munger—the same Mr. Munger known around the Penn campus as Football Coach Munger.

Covered from head to foot with grease and grime, George took a few minutes off from threading two-foot steel tie-rods to explain that he was happy—happy because "maybe Len Warner (end on the 1941 team) will be getting some of this stuff in Tunisia tomorrow,' and happy because the job pays 60 cents an hour.

"And boy, will I be glad when pay day comes around," he quipped.

Munger works at his job from seven in the morning until noon, and reports on the Penn campus only at 1:30 p. m.

Understand, I go home tired at night, and I've had to go to the doctor Billy Morris twice for a lift-down, but it makes you feel important when you know that these parts are going to help our boys at the front."

The tie-rods he makes are used for searchlight mountings and on tanks.

Mrs. Munger and Grebille, their four-year-old son are prouder of Munger's war work than they are of his football achievements.

"Despite his dirty hands and the way he leaves the washbowl, I'm proud of him, the coach's lady declared.

Little Grebille, playing with a toy tank, looked at it from a different angle

"My Daddy can fix this, now," he said as he broke one of the toys.

George was a little uncertain about the football prospects at Penn.

"We won't be able to do anything until July 1, when the navy students report. And then we'll have to do everything in one hour, because that's all the drill time naval regulations will permit the cadets."

"But I'm not worrying," he said optimistically. "If things go wrong I will have my job at 60 cents an hour."

Edwards Only Rook In Lineup

Ex-Mansfield Brave Starts For Indians Today.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Eight veterans are included in the Cleveland Indians' lineup for the American league opener here today with the Detroit Tigers.

* * *

Two of the starters, Outfielder Roy Cullenbine and Catcher Warren (Buddy) Rosar are appearing in tribal regalia for the first time, and one, Otto Denning, is at a new position, first base. Centerfielder Hank Edwards is the lone recruit.

* * *

Jeff Heath, who has had only two days of practice since he ended his long holdout fight, was given the left field assignment by Manager Lou Boudreau; Rosar is replacing Gene Desautels, whose right wrist was bruised by a pitched ball in an exhibition game at Cincinnati Sunday.

Heath took a long workout at the Stadium yesterday, hit the ball as solidly as any member of the team and pronounced himself ready and eager to play.

Jim Bagby, who defeated Detroit in the opener last year is the Cleveland moundsman. Tommy Bridges, veteran right hander, is the probable Tiger hurler.

The Detroit pilot, Steve O'Neill, views this year's pennant chase as a five-team race.

"Cleveland, New York, Boston, St. Louis and Detroit should make it a race all the way, with perhaps some trouble from Washington, which seems to be an improved club," the stout Irishman opined.

REDS MEET CARDS

CINCINNATI —(AP)—The world champion St. Louis Cardinals are here today for a ball game with the Cincinnati Reds, and if there's any justice in this cockeyed world, Johnny Vander Meer is the winner.

It's the opening day of a season that may never see September, but tradition is to be served, weather permitting, and 30,000 people propose to be on hand by 2:30 p. m. (EWT), when Vander Meer fires the first pitch at Jimmy Brown. Morton Cooper is the Cardinal ace opposing Vandy.

For Vandy himself pitching the opener is an honor earned after four years. In 1938 he was going great guns and had his two no-hit games. So he naturally pitched the first game of 1939. He was knocked out of the box and scarcely had a good game all year, even though his team won its first pennant in 20 years.

The next year was no better and after a few tries, he went to Indianapolis to regain his control. But he's been on the comeback ever since, winning 18 games last year against 12 losses, and today he gets a chance to show Manager Bill McKechnie that he's worth all the patience and faith.

It may be his chance, too. Before long Johnny will be in one of Uncle Sam's uniforms.

The Cardinals take the field with hardly a reasonable facsimile of the team that beat the New York Yankees in the World series.

Coaches Take Over For Injured Casey

BOSTON —(INS)— Manager Casey Stengel of the Boston Braves today was recuperating from injuries resulting from an automobile accident in the Back Bay district early yesterday morning.

* * *

The club physician after examining X-rays said that Stengel suffered bad fractures of both bones in the lower part of his right leg.

* * *

Meanwhile Quinn said that George Kelly and Bob Coleman, coaches, would run the club until Stengel is able to take over.

CITY ASSOCIATION BOWLS ON THURSDAY

Women's City association, which usually bowls on Sunday, will roll tomorrow night at 6 o'clock at Colony alleys, and the following Thursday at the same time, completing its schedule.

They will not roll on Easter Sunday, it was announced.

Ritz Retains 5-Game Lead

Two Top Teams Win Victories By 2-1.

Ritz Nite club maintained its five-game lead over Silver Kings in the Transportation bowling league as each team scored a 2-1 win last night at Colony alleys.

Jim Villella of Ritz turned in high game of 232, and Teal of the Silver Kings had high total of 588.

Sons of Herman No. 1 chalked up high team total of 2616, and the Kings had high game of 920.

2,000 SOFTBALL TEAMS PLAY AT GREAT LAKES

GREAT LAKES, Ill. — (AP) — Softball teams at the Great Lakes naval training station will not have to leave their base for competition

A program is being arranged for about 2,000 teams, to be made up into several leagues. About 150 fields are available.

First Ball's Tossed Out; Season's on

Paul V. McNutt, War Manpower commissioner, is pictured here in the act of tossing out the first baseball to start the 1943 major league season which got under way when the Philadelphia Athletics and the Washington Senators clashed in Griffith stadium in the nation's capital. Left of McNutt is Mrs. McNutt. On the right are Manager Connie Mack of the Athletics and Owner Clark Griffith of the Senators. McNutt substituted for President Roosevelt who is on tour.

Moose Keglers Double Sked

Managers Break 3-Way Deadlock For First.

Moose keglers last night began doubling up their schedule for an early closing date.

* * *

Managers broke the three-way tie for first place, turning in a shutout victory while Secretaries and Pilgrims each scored 2-1 wins and dropped into a deadlock for second.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Lew Fonseca has whittled out a series of instructive sequences from the various American league films shot since 1934 and will take them on a month's tour of army camps to show Uncle Sam's soldiers the right way to play baseball . . . Eventually he hopes to build up a "technical instruction library," which the league will lend to high school, college and service coaches.

$64 ANSWER

When Fred Corcoran, former professional golfers' association tournament manager now working for the Red Cross in England, put on one of his popular sports quizzes recently he asked: "What golfer made the grand slam?"

The answer came from a negro soldier: "Sam Snead. I was caddying for him in Atlanta when he bust a drive 350 yards. What a grand slam!"

SPORTSMENTION

Dick Wakefield, who collected $51,000 for signing with the Tigers a couple of years ago, failed to pass his economics course at Michigan last fall—which shows the weakness of our educational system . . . While awaiting his navy call, the Chicago Bears' Bill Osmanski started making pep talks at war plants and his sports anecdotes, plugs for recreation programs and yarns about his football buddies overseas got such a swell reception that he's going to devote all his time to talking. Supplies Enter Baseball Loop

Three Teams Ready For Mansfield Schedule.

A third team was added to the proposed four-team Y.M.C.A. Commercial Baseball league yesterday when Ira Kochheiser, of the Mansfield Athletic Supply, agreed to back a team which will consist mainly of players from last year's Mansfield Travelers nine.

* * *

Johnny Heckert, who will manage the Supply outfit, has called a practice session for 5:30 p. m. Thursday at Liberty Park. Heckert requests that members of the Travelers and any other players interested report.

* * *

Heckert said he has seven players already lined up. They are Pennell's Moselle, Red Hemmah, Ken Leibhart, Red Cornish, Howard Poole, Jack Elliott and Ike Long. These boys, with the exception of Poole, performed for the Travelers last season.

The other two teams already in the fold will be backed by Mosker's and a group of west end business men

PAUL SARRINGHAUS JOINS ARMY RESERVE

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Ohio State university's football team, champion of the Big Ten last fall, boasted another blue star on its service flag today for Paul Sarringhaus.

A halfback on the squad last year, Sarringhaus was inducted yesterday at Fort Thomas as a member of the enlisted army reserve corps.

Senators Subdue A's In Diamond Opener

Other Big League Teams Lift Seasonal Lid In Today's Tilts.

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

SPRING IS HERE! All the people who have been doubting it for various reasons, especially the weather, had to be convinced today because the baseball season is now open.

The Washington Senators subdued the Philadelphia Athletics, 7-5, yesterday in the nation's capital and took over first place in the American league for at least one day, leaving it up to the other major league clubs to do as well in their openers today.

The formal bow for the National and American leagues as a whole called for this program:

National—St. Louis at Cincinnati, New York at Brooklyn, Pittsburgh at Chicago and Philadelphia at Boston.

American — Washington at New York, Boston at Philadelphia, Detroit at Cleveland and Chicago at St. Louis.

In winning the inaugural in Griffith stadium the Senators confirmed the suspicions of many observers that play this season would be more slovenly, that the ball is "more dead," that crowds in midweek will be smaller and that Washington is improved over last year.

The turnout for the inaugural was the smallest in many years at Washington, 25,093, and the game itself was a stumbling affair with the Senators making three errors and the Athletics calling on four hurlers.

The game's longest hit was a two-bagger, but the Senators managed to push across six runs in a big sixth-inning rally.

The Athletics combed Emil (Dutch) Leonard, the veteran knuckleballer, for six hits and three runs before he was removed for a pinchhitter in the fourth inning and Alejandro Carrasquel, the Venezuelan, received credit for the victory.

* * *

Luman Harris started on the mound for the A's, as shakily as Leonard, and was belted out in the sixth when the Senators bunched five hits and sent a dozen batters to the plate in a six-run outbreak.

The Senators, who now boast the heaviest hitting outfield in the major, collected 12 safeties to Philadelphia's eight.

Diners Take Matinee Title

Schmutzler's Miss Good Chance For Crown.

Max Diners won the championship of the women's Tuesday Matinee bowling league with a margin of only one game over Schmutzler's Cafe as the loop closed its season yesterday at Colony alleys.

Schmutzler's missed a great chance to cop the title as the league leaders were blanked by Provident Loans, but the Cafes also were being defeated, 1-2, by Office Cafe.

BRITISH SEIZE ENFIDAVILLE IN FIERCE ATTACK

Allies Shoot Down 27 More Axis Planes Bringing 3-Day Bag To 151.

ish air forces continued heavy attacks on the enemy, especially along the road to Tunis in support of the Eighth army drive.

Reconnaissance photographs also showed excellent results from bombardment of Axis supply bases, especially in Sicily, where recent raids by Flying Fortresses sank or damaged at least 28 enemy supply ships.

Today's communique said that fighting continued along the Enfidaville front. Meanwhile, French forces made a slight advance along the mountain ridge in the southwest Bou Arada sector.

In the air, Allied planes further asserted their mastery of the skies over Tunisia and the Mediterranean by shooting down 27 enemy planes yesterday with a loss of eight of their own. The communique also boosted Sunday's toll of enemy aircraft by 10 and Monday's by two for a grand total of 151 planes shot down in three days.

A terrific artillery barrage, reminiscent of the Eighth army's offensives at El Alamein and the Mareth line, opened Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's assault against the Gulf of Hammamet coastal sector of the German bridgehead in northeastern Tunisia at 9:30 p. m. Monday.

At the zero hour of 11 p. m., thousands of British infantrymen, armed with tommy guns and special knives for hand-to-hand fighting moved out across no man's land and up the rock-strewn, shrub-covered slopes of the mountains guarding the approaches to the Tunis plain.

A curtain of artillery fire bursting only a few hundred yards ahead of the advance troops paved the way for a successful assault on Enfidaville and other objectives.

A dispatch from Ned Russell, United Press war correspondent with the Eighth army, said the British also captured Djebel Garci, a 1,200-foot height dominating a large area of Rommel's mountain defenses a few miles west of Enfidaville.

Despite initial British successes however, Russell said German Marshal Erwin Rommel still holds a formidable string of ridges north of Enfidaville and Djebel Garci which presumably make up his main defenses for Tunis.

Russell said the terrain was the most difficult yet encountered by the Eighth army in its 2,000-mile pursuit of Rommel's Africa corps from El Alamein, Egypt, and Allied observers here warned that any advance would be a slow and tedious business.

Rommel is known to have fortified the hills along the Enfidaville line with hundreds of guns, including nests of the deadly 88-millimeter cannon that have served him so well in the past as well as mortars.

Montgomery chose a moonlight night to launch his Enfidaville offensive, even as he did to open his attacks on the Alamein and Mareth lines. By coincidence, it also was the eve of Adolf Hitler's birthday.

On the western side of the enemy's Tunisian bridgehead, today's communique said, the British First army under Lieut. Gen. Kenneth A. Anderson made a "small local advance" in the Medjez El Bab sector 30 miles southwest of Tunis.

The additional 10 planes reported shot down on Sunday raised that day's toll to 98 at least 58 of which were three-engined transports believed ferrying key personnel out of Tunisia. Monday's toll was increased to 26 aircraft by the additional two aircraft reported in today's communique.

Medium and light bombers raided enemy air fields in Tunisia Tuesday night and strong forces of bombers followed through yesterday with heavy attacks on the same targets.

Stand Firm On Complete Surrender

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told a cheering house of commons today the United Nations still were "determined on the unconditional surrender of the Axis and its satellites."

Eden said he had received "no official information that Spain is ready to use her good offices to restore world peace."

Yesterday the German news agency, DNB said in a Berlin broadcast the German foreign office was unaware of any Spanish mediation offer and the Axis aim was "victory without compromise."

Sounds New South Pacific Warning

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA—(AP)—Japan's air and ground power in the southwest Pacific is growing "with great rapidity," a spokesman for General Douglas MacArthur warned today, and "the situation is now becoming more menacing on the Australian front."

"It is our hope that our force will grow to match his (the enemy's)," the spokesman said.

The warning was the latest in a series sounded from headquarters of top ranking military officials by way of tempering somewhat the successes of General MacArthur's far-ranging bombers. One of those successes was the sinking yesterday at Wewak, New Guinea, of a 6,000-ton ship, presumably loaded with fuel, judging from the way it burst into flame.

In that same harbor, on New Guinea's north coast, two 8,000-ton ships were sent to the bottom only last week in an assault on a nine-ship Japanese convoy.

Bromfield Urges Volunteers To Ease Farm Labor Problem

nings and over the week-end could register at the headquarters and be ready for call to help on farms. Farmers needing help could place their order for workers with the recruiting headquarters.

It was folly to believe that farmers could produce more food this year with less skilled help, machinery, fertilizer, and feed for livestock and poultry, Bromfield said.

He said the appointment of Davis as food production director was a victory for the opponents of muddling in the national administration and predicted that Davis wasn't likely to be "balked by politicians."

It has been the policy of the administration to hide the seriousness of the food situation from the people until after the 1944 elections, Bromfield charged. Fortunately, however, the crisis is already here and something will have to be done before next year, he added.

Bromfield told Rotarians that the recent conference of mid-west governors in Des Moines was a move of the states to solve the food problem since the national administration had shown no signs of remedying it.

"The people are fed up with what's been going on in Washington, and the recent moves of the states have been tied up with the re-establishment of state's rights and the decentralization of government," he continued.

Bromfield flayed selective service officials who tell the public that industry, and not the army, has taken most of the boys off farms.

"We heard recently that 75 per cent of the young men who have left farms went to the city for jobs, but we get a different idea of that when we know that those fellows who went to the city were workers who drifted from one job to another and worked where the pay was best," he said. "They never were as much help to the farmer as the skilled hands who made up the other 27 per cent who were called into the army."

Discussing his own Malabar farm's program for the year, Bromfiled said he will farm 320 more acres this year, part of which was purchased from a neighbor who couldn't get help, and it has been necessary to build one house and buy another to provide homes for married men who have replaced single workers called by the army. Not every farmer is able to do that, he said.

Malabar farm will have about 1,000 laying hens this summer and will raise 250 hogs unless government restrictions make it impossible to obtain enough concentrated feed for them, he told the club.

Asserting that he is still a New Dealer, Bromfield added that "what goes on now in Washington has nothing to do with the old New Deal. Most of the able men in it quit in disgust a long time ago. Liberal Democrats feel that they no longer can play ball with the administration and have decided to come out into the open with their opinions. Nothing worse could happen to us than to continue those in power today."

Carl Oberlin was program chairman of the meeting held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Dale Roth and David Little were introduced as new members of the club. Dean Dickerson, Kenneth Dirlam and Ruhland Isaly were elected to the board of directors.

Presents Four-Point Peace Formula In League Lecture

means of transportation and communication and now wholly interdependent.

—Peace planning must be a process of the daily consideration of political contracts such as the trade agreements, the speaker said. Congressmen must guard their public statements and the people must give particular care to election so that the people with whom we shall work in formulating the peace will not have been given the wrong idea of the attitude of the American people, she said. As for the individual he must add a third dimension to his thinking. He must be local, national and international in thought.

Mrs. Wright observed that the policy of isolation followed by the United States from the end of the last war to the beginning of the present war had not done what was expected of it, it had not kept us out of war. She proposed that at the end of this war it would be wise to follow a different policy. The speaker traced the history of the League of Nations, its defeat in this country by a handful of senators, and its relation to the situation today.

"As far as I can determine the plan of the isolationist is one of do nothing, look the other way, if you keep away from it, it will keep away from you," said Mrs. Wright is she entered upon a discussion of the post-war planning. She also spoke of the plans for hemisphere unity and the failure of such plans in the present war.

The plan for Anglo-Saxon domination of the world is seen by Mrs. Wright as presenting many of the same problems Axis domination is now putting before the world. England and America as the chief English-speaking nations of the world would take on the tremendous job of policing a world including many people who resent this domination.

Among the most discussed plans being presented today, Mrs. Wright spoke first of the collective security system which is a form of the League of Nations plan with a few major changes. This plan would incorporate the use of force, the rule of the majority, would delegate some power now held by the individual countries to the overall group, would emphasize the individual rather than the political structure and would call for an international bill of rights.

Clarence Streit's plan set forth in his book "Union Now" was pointed out by Mrs. Wright as weak in the fact that it sets up competing groups which present the possibility of another world conflict. She said that the plan, one of the earliest and most popularly discussed plans, had prepared the minds of the people for the idea of federation.

Mrs. Wright found the greatest good in the plan set forth by Elv Culbertson to be the fact that it answered the question of an international police force. Culbertson would divide the world into 11 regions with a form of home guard in each region and a mobile police force with jurisdiction over the entire world. The speaker said that the weakness of the plan lies in the fact that it is too minute in details of rules and regulation. She believes that no such rigid plan can be set up and be presented to the people, it must rather be a plan evolving from the dealings with a series of problems.

Finally, Mrs. Wright discussed the Ball resolution which would form a federation using the United Nations as a nucleus. This resolution formulated by four senators is already in the hands of a senate committee for consideration. The plan calls for the United States to take the initiative in bringing the nations together in conference. The speaker said the United Nations food conference to be held next month would be a test case for this plan. She said that the one idea behind this plan is that in the peace conference following this war the president of the United States, if this plan is passed by the people, will have definite plans with the backing of the American people to present to the conference rather than bringing home plans to be ratified by the people after the conference as was the case in the last war.

Mrs. D. O. Meese, president of the Mansfield League of Women Voters, introduced the speaker and noted that Mansfield was honored in being one of the four Ohio cities to hear Mrs. Wright lecture.

A 15-minute organ recital preceding the address was played by Miss Mabel Zehner, organist of the First Presbyterian church.

Battle For Height Over Kuban Delta

MOSCOW—(AP)—A violent struggle for an important height marked the mounting battle in the Kuban delta above Novorossisk today as the Germans threw in more troops in an attempt to regain lost positions, but nowhere did they succeed in gaining any ground, the Russians reported today.

A dispatch to Red Star, the army newspaper, said artillery action had increased and there were more and more bombings by the German air force operating in strength from the waters of the Black sea northward to the sea of Azov.

It was too early in the developing battle to decide here if the Germans were attempting a new spring offensive.

Presidents Cross Border After Exchanging Friendship Vows at Monterey.

tory vein, that "neither your excellency nor I believe in negative memories."

Side by side, in a casino at a military post on the outskirts of Monterey, the presidents let their sherbet melt while they went on the air. It was an elaborate banquet as to food, but not as to clothes and accessories. All the men wore business suits. Mrs. Avila Camacho wore diamond earrings. Two of the guests, representing labor organizations, had on blue denim overall jackets.

On a red-tiled terrace outside overlooking a "moat" and a corner of a swimming-pool which made the casino an island, a 60 piece string band garbed in the tremendous hats and tight trousers of native Charros played throughout the evening. Before the meal the chief executives conferred for two hours.

Avila Camacho stressed the "solidarity" of Mexico and the United States in the common case of destroying "the machinery of barbarism constructed by the dictators."

The two chief executives:

1—Erected a barricade against any "negotiated peace" feelers that the Axis might direct through Spain or other intermediaries.

2—Credited international understanding and non-exploitation with success of American solidarity; and

3—Offered those points as bases for world postwar planning.

"Let us make sure," Mr. Roosevelt said, "that when our victory is won, when the forces of evil surrender—and that surrender shall be unconditional—then we, with the same spirit and with the same united courage, will face the task of building a better world."

Avila Camacho left no doubt the meeting of the two presidents—climaxing Mr. Roosevelt's second major inspection of America's booming war effort—was dominated by a sense of postwar planning responsibility, as well as wartime continental strategy.

The handclasp of the two leaders represented the first time a United States president has traveled deep into Mexico, and the first meeting of chief executives of the two nations since 1909, when Presidents Taft and Porfirio Diaz shook hands at the International bridge between El Paso and Juarez.

President Roosevelt's pointed remark that surrender of "the forces of evil" shall be unconditional was seen as a direct answer to last week's peace proposal from officials of General Franco's Spanish government. Previously, diplomatic reaction in Washington and elsewhere among Allied nations had indicated only a scornful rejection of the feeler—which at least had Berlin's approval, if not inspiration.

Swift seconding of that spirit came from Avila Camacho who said "our countries do not wish for a more strategic truce obtained simply so that the world may again tomorrow fall into the same faults of ambition, of imperialism, of iniquity and of sordid privilege."

Mr. Roosevelt brought with him the expressed belief that United States troops have vastly improved since his tour last September. His impressions—picked up in visits to camps and fields in Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Arkansas—were that the troops were more fit and turned out snappier, and that morale was very, very high. He also remarked that between military training and rationing, the nation would have a stronger race of people.

He left Washington April 13 after dedicating the Jefferson memorial, and his subsequent swing through the south, he said, renewed his belief that Washington is lagging far behind the rest of the nation in war spirit.

While bombers were blasting German industry and ports on Adolf Hitler's 54th birthday, British fighter-bombers were making one of them biggest assaults of the war against enemy transport in northwest Germany, Holland and Belgium without loss.

Mosquitoes, Typhoons, Beaufighters and Whirlwinds bombed and strafed 15 locomotives, two moving trains, six trawlers and a number of barges. One trawler was blown up off the Belgian coast.

The raid on Berlin was the 61st of the war. Mosquito bombers also raided the German capital in daylight twice on Jan. 30, interrupting a Nazi party anniversary celebration and delaying a speech by Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering.

Committee O.K.'s Extension of Currency Fund, With Limitation.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The house coinage committee today unanimously approved a two-year extension of the $2,000,000,000 currency stabilization fund, but specified that control of it must remain with the president and the secretary of the treasury.

In so specifying, the committee said it had in mind possible post-war international stabilization efforts, perhaps including establishment of an international bank into which the stabilization fund might go, whereby direct control of it by the president might be lost.

SET TO CANCEL PART OF TAXES

Dems, GOP Agree on Plan To Get Pay-as-You-Go Levy In Operation.

Doughton (D) N. C., 79-year-old chairman of the tax-writing ways and means committee.

3. All tax installments paid this year, including the payment made last March 15, will be credited against taxes on 1943 income instead of 1942, and that portion of the tax liability for last year which is not abated will be amortized, probably over a five-year period.

4. Starting July 1, a 2 per cent withholding levy will be imposed on all pay envelopes to simplify tax collections and to help taxpayers budget their payments.

5. Although a new revenue bill will be considered to meet President Roosevelt's request for a $16,000,000,000 increase in government income, no levies imposed under it shall become effective before Jan. 1, 1944.

The compromise, generally described in congress as "the "Doughton Plan No. 1," would provide complete cancellation for an estimated 7,500,000 persons who became taxpayers for the first time under the record-breaking 1942 revenue act.

As to persons in other brackets, the amount of cancellation would vary from 9 to 17 per cent, using the 1942 rates, on which they have already paid one installment, as a basis.

The compromise was achieved largely through the willingness of house Republicans to make sizeable concessions simply to get a pay-as-you-go bill through the house. The GOP members until yesterday had steadfastly although unsuccessfully, sponsored the widely-publicized Ruml plan which called for 100 per cent cancellation of a year's tax liability.

Although the agreement on a compromise has now cleared the air, it is not considered likely that that house will attempt to act on the new tax plan until at least next week.

project as long as the weather was cold, Grimes asserted. He added that the state had been urging the contractor to resume operations as soon as the weather would permit.

One 22-foot lane of concrete was poured last fall between the B. and O. overhead near the Mansfield corporation limits and the Erie subway to the west. The entire north lane of paving, about 1,500 feet of both lanes at the west end, and nearly 1,000 feet of the two lanes at the east end must still be constructed.

Once the excavation work is done, the paving can be completed in a comparatively short time, Grimes said.

The division highway engineer estimated that approximately one-third of the paving has been done, but because both ends are unfinished the completed strip is useless to traffic.

When the Lombardo brothers firm was granted an extension last fall, it was on the basis of the contractor's inability to obtain certain materials because of war priorities, the highway department said.

GHOST OF MY LOVE +

By Oren Arnold

(Copyright, 1943)

CHAPTER XVIII

Rosemary started back to Lightning, whipped once more. Every time she had encountered Harry Boyle he had defeated her. She felt increasingly bitter toward him and herself. She couldn't forgive herself for letting him make a fool of her in the first place.

"Everybody ought to be made to wait a week before marrying," she whispered it now, driving along. "I was in love with—the idea of marriage only. Any girl has moments like that. When the glitter of romance blinds her judgment. But I never thought I'd be that crazy. I could have married Norman. Or Phil. They both asked me, months ago. Only I—"

That line of thinking held no peace, either. It merely emphasized that Life or Fate or something can be extremely cruel. Surely, Norman Daye and Philip Hart had both asked to marry her, but she had gaily laughed them away. And now, the only man she had ever really loved and wanted to marry, found her forever tied and bound!

She wondered if Bill St. Clair really liked her a little, personally. She decided for no reason to drive by the dust-laden air field site and at least look at the work going on. Maybe, too, see Bill for a moment. It was only a mile off the main Lightning road.

Bill was across the field two miles away, but a truck driver told him a girl was waiting. He came to her on the next truck.

"I— I have no news, Bill," she apologized, self-consciously now. "I just wanted to see you, and all. I mean, see the work."

"Sure." He nodded, as if in complete understanding. Both knew the work here was pointless unless a miracle occurred. But at least it was work. Keeping these machines and these men idle would have been maddening.

"It could be so grand," she murmured.

He looked at her. "Rosemary, this is Saturday afternoon. We'll stop here in another two hours. No real point in working overtime, although I guess they might as well go ahead on Monday morning. But look—you've been slaving, yourself, working and worrying. You haven't had any sort of relaxation out here."

"No, Bill. But I—"

"Well look, I know you're married, so I'm not, uh, asking for a date or anything of the sort. I don't play ball that way. In fact, I wouldn't even suggest this much, only you—well, I'm responsible for you, see. Out here in the wilderness this way."

"What are you getting at Bill?"

"Uncle Pete has a new saddle horse. That makes two."

"Does it?"

"Yep. And I thought maybe tonight, after dinner—look, there, a moon. We could just ride up Purple Canyon and maybe up high to the rim and look down on the world. Nothing personal. Just a friendly ride. Okay?"

"I'd love it. In fact I need it, Bill. Let's start early."

She left him, then. She pushed her car on up the slope to their picture-book town, where the vermillion cliffs had fused with the late afternoon sunbeams to make this truly Purple Canyon. Oddly, her heart beat now at a faster clip. She kept telling herself this was to be wholly impersonal, innocent, casual, but she couldn't control her keen anticipation. She went to her room despising Harry Boyle more than ever; and, for having married him, despising herself most of all.

"I'll ride with Bill just this once," she promised herself. "Because he's so blue and indirectly I'm the cause of it. Or at least my husband is. I owe it to Bill to help him rest and relax. This failure may wreck his whole career. It would have been better if he'd never heard of me. Or I'd never heard of him." But that last thought, she confessed, too, was horrible.

They met at 7:30 and rode away from Uncle Pete's corral. Strangely, they said almost nothing. Words seemed out of place. Up Custer street, across Bowie and Cody and around the bend of Thunderbird avenue they rode. This led to the trail that lured them on higher, until eventually their horses came puffing to the rim. Automatically both riders reined in.

Majesty was spread before them now. Twilight was dimming out entirely, giving way to the stars and moon. Mountains lay in placid slumber. Down Purple Canyon phantoms seemed literally to be stirring in the ghost town, 2,000 feet below them, and to the left a little was the smoother area which both Rosemary and Bill knew was the new project.

"Lightning Field," she said, quietly. It was the name they had used.

He seemed not to hear her. He was taking something from the pocket of the leather jacket he wore.

"Indian squaws visited the construction work today," he said, off-handedly. "I bought you this. You, uh, you can say you bought it yourself. You probably would have if you'd been there."

It was something wrapped crudely in a man's handkerchief. But when he held it out, it was beautiful.

"Oh, Bill-I-I-I!" Rosemary breathed that.

"Matched set," he went on. "Made by her husband. They're the Navajo tribe. Best silversmiths of all."

She held a bracelet of exquisite hand-tooled silver, set with three ovals of turquoise. A ring was in similar design. She put them on, and she felt her chin tremble a little in spite of herself.

"It—it's just a business matter," he kept apologizing. "You know, like any office might give to its staff, as appreciation for faithful service, Rosemary. It cost only $20. I'll put it on the office expense account, of course. Office routine."

He was very serious, she realized. He leaned over on the horn of the saddle, avoiding her eyes, feigning disinterest in the jewelry and the girl who wore it now.

For a long time silence held them. He kept looking far away. She could see his profile against the Big Dipper in the northern sky, and she fingered the bracelet tenderly, yearningly. Despair, greater than she had ever known, settled inside to mock and taunt her now.

"Of course, Bill," she murmured at last, echoing him. "Office routine. "Thank you so much, anyway."

OLD-FASHIONED STRAW RIDE GIVES AUSTRALIANS A THRILL

(By International News Service)

ALLENDALE, S. C.—Now an old-fashioned straw ride makes the headlines in Australia, and a Georgia officer of the United States Air Force, Major Ben S. Irvin, planned the whole affair.

Major Irvin told how he and three fellow officers provided the entertainment one afternoon for four "lovely Australian girls." He said they encountered some difficulty in finding the straw-filled wagon drawn by a mule or horse.

The four couples enjoyed themselves thoroughly, but they were entirely unaware of creating a sensation. The city papers the next morning carried front page pictures and headlines about the American fliers who originated a new form of entertainment.

The major thought they had provided Australia with the first straw ride, and added, "all the comment seemed queer to me for that form of entertainment is as old as the hills in Georgia."

After a year's duty in Australia and the Philippine, Major Irvin is spending a furlough in Washington, Ga., and visiting relatives in Allendale, S. C. Twice decorated for gallantry while on duty in the Pacific war zone, he wears the Silver Star and the Oak Leaf Cluster.

As a second lieutenant at Hamilton Field, Calif., Major Irvin made an outstanding record as pilot of a pursuit plane and was selected by his commanding officer as one of a group to go to England to observe the RAF.

RATIONS POOR

BERKELEY, Cal. —(U.P.)— Nutrition experts at the University of California have just completed the analysis of a Japanese soldier's ration brought back from the Pacific front.

Their report is that while it may be sufficient for a Japanese, it would make an American soldier go on a hunger strike. It consists of a bottle of vitamins, a one-pound can of rice, a vegetable stuck together with a bean curd batter and a bottle of sugar ration that smells like pineapple and almond.

MODERN DAMON AND PYTHIAS NEVER APART, EVEN IN ARMY

(By International News Service)

CORPUS CHRIST, Tex.—Add this one to your Damon and Pythias collection.

Frank and Toby Gates, of Huntsville, Tex., aren't twins, Toby, 23, being a year older, but when he found himself ahead of his brother, he dropped out of school a year so that Frank could catch up.

Then for four years they took the same subjects, made identical grades, and were graduated from high school on the same day. During the four years, they played varsity basketball together, Frank at right guard and Toby at left.

They entered Sam Houston State college, and both majored in history and physical education, again making the same grades, and again playing the guard posts on the basketball team, Frank at right and Toby at left. They both received A. B. degrees, and planned to teach together.

Then came the war, and both enlisted in the Navy, where both now hold Chief Specialist ratings. They now share the guard spots on the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station basketball team.

Both boys are just an inch short of six feet, have blue eyes and brown hair. Both are expert ventriloquists. And, if Toby has sweated off two pounds in practice, both weigh 163.

DISAPPEAR

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — (U.P.) — A conflict of thought prevails here in police and detective circles as to what might have been the motive for the disappearance of 200 nice, fat bullfrogs from the backyard pond of Dick Doe.

One school of thought holds the opinion that it may merely have been neighbors who tired of the all-night anvil chorus of the frogs, while the other school tends to the theory that someone may possibly have seen the possibilities of breaking the meat shortage.

The least we can do for TOM WEAVER

HE WAS FRESH OUT OF OHIO STATE the day he came in to see us about a job.

His diploma read that he had majored in Petroleum Geology. His face read that he had spunk . . . and "git-up" . . . and faith. We had an idea he'd fit into the SOHIO family.

We were right. In only a short time, he was given a promotion in the pipe-line department. The future looked bright for young Tom Weaver.

Just about then, war clouds started to rumble. The Navy issued a call for fliers. And young Tom came in to say goodbye.

We wished him good luck. Gave him a rousing send-off—and the promise of a job after the war.

That was all we could do for him—then.

The Navy sent Tom down to the great flying base at Pensacola. He had been there several months when his mother went down to visit him.

The day of their reunion should have been a very happy one.

It wasn't. Shortly before his mother arrived, young Tom Weaver had crashed to his death . . .

What can we do for Tom Weaver today?

Tom Weaver is not the only SOHIOAN to have laid down his life in this war.

But he was the first—and so is a symbol of all of SOHIO'S men now in the armed forces.

Those men are risking lives and limbs and futures so that the rest of us may keep on enjoying a peaceful, secure existence.

What more can we do for these men?

Well, when we at Standard Oil think of Tom Weaver—we know very well what more we can do! And it's the least we can do . . .

BUY MORE BONDS!

In this, the Second War Loan Drive that lasts until May 1st. let's all dig a little deeper, put aside a little more, get along with a little less, and—buy an extra Bond!

For the money that's in our pockets now . . . the money we have saved up . . . yes, and the money we can borrow—can help save the precious life of some young Tom Weaver in the fighting forces.

And what more can we get for our money than that?

This is Lee Thomas Weaver, first SOHIOAN to give his life for his country in World War II.

STREET REPAIR PROGRAM SET

State Confers With Officials at Bucyrus on Proposed Improvements.

BUCYRUS—Possibility of secur-ing the resurfacing of Mansfield street and North Sandusky avenue by the state highway department was announced at city council meeting Tuesday night by Mayor William F. Whiteamire.

Mayor Whiteamire reported that he and Service Director Fred Judd had conferred on the proposed im-provement last week and that state highway officials would be in the city tomorrow to make an inspec-tion of the streets with a view of going ahead with the improvement.

Widening of Mansfield street, originally included in the im-provement program, will need to be deferred for the duration be-cause of material shortages, he said.

Service Director Judd who has resigned to accept other employ-ment, effective May 1, expressed his appreciation of the co-operation given by council during his three and a half years' of service and council members responded with thanks for his work and asked that the spring program be completely lined up before the work is turned over to his success-or who has not yet been named.

Before leaving his duties the service director was authorized to advertise for bids and enter into a contract for a year's supply of crushed stone, coal, oil for street work, gasoline and filter material.

Because of labor problems, coun-cil adopted a resolution granting permission to the Ohio Fuel Gas company to read meters bi month-ly replacing the present monthly reading, if the need becomes urgent.

THEATERS

Huge Chorus.

One of the largest all-male choral groups ever used for back-ground vocalizing in a photoplay, worked at Universal studio under the direction of Musical Director Charles Previn for songs in Deanna Durbin's latest production, "The Amazing Mrs. Holliday," now showing at the Ohio. Num-bering 285 men, the group sang with Miss Durbin. No musical instruments beside a piano were used. Songs Miss Durbin sings include Puccini's "Visi D'Arte," "The Old Refrain," A Chinese Lullaby "Rock-A-Bye-Baby," and "Mighty Lak' A Rose."

"The Mad Russian."

In what is called one of the funniest pictures of the season, Bert Gordon, radio comedian, re-turns to the screen when Colum-bia's "Let's Have Fun" opens to-day at the Madison. More popu-larly known as "The Mad Rus-sian," Gordon is aided and abet-ted in his antics by Margaret Lindsay and John Beal. The story opens with Beal, an unem-ployed actor, stating his inten-tions of going to work as a taxi driver in order to support his little daughter. However, Miss Lindsay is determined to place him in a Broadway musical production. She lands him the job, but one com-plication arises. Beal must pre-tend that he is unmarried. Co-attraction at the Madison features the Dead End Kids and Little Tough Guys in "Keep 'Em Slug-ging."

Gay Comedy.

One of the season's gayest comedy films is now playing at the Park. Veronica Lake and Fredric March are co-starred in "I Married A Witch," and the comedy packed into the film promises to keep the audience in an uproar. Miss Lake plays the part of the witch who was put to death in colonial days for prac-ticing her evil on the pilgrims. She returns to modern life after 270 years, and casts a spell over March. At the time she enters the picture, March is about to be married and to be elected gover-nor of his state. Miss Lake breaks both of these things up but in doing so falls in love with March. She promises she will see that he is elected governor, and keeps her word when the re-turns come in showing March with over 3,000,000 votes to none for his opponents. Co-attraction at the Park is "Get Hep to Love."

Time to Kill.

Lloyd Nolan again shows his skill as the dashing detective in "Time to Kill," story of the theft of a rare and valuable coin, now showing at the Ritz. The coin has been stolen from the collection of a wealthy old dowager. Nolan's search leads him to three mur-ders and two beautiful girls—which, of course, is all right with him. "My Heart Belongs to Dad-dy" is the co-feature.

are unaccounted for and one was killed.

While most of the Tokyo raid details have been told, little has been revealed until now about the hardships the heroes encoun-tered following the bombing as their planes ran out of gas in the darkness over a strange land.

The original plan was to pro-ceed by carrier to within 400 miles of Japan, bomb Japan at night and arrive at assigned fields in China at dawn.

The twin-engined land bombers were aboard the carrier Hornet (later sunk by the Japanese in the battle of Santa Cruz) when they suddenly spotted a Jap pa-trol vessel, which they eluded. While attempting to escape a sec-ond patrol vessel, they ran into a third.

Although the Jap ship was sunk, it was feared that the vessel might have warned Tokyo, al-though subsequent events showed this was not the case.

Bravely the planes took off and smashed military objectives at Tokyo, Yokohama, Nagoya, Kobe and Osaka.

Instead of coming over Japan at night, the bombers skipped over the sea at heights of 15 to 20 feet and swept over their tar-gets at noon on a bright day.

"One by one? each objective of each plane was checked off," the war department said. "Now it was a tank factory, now a shipyard with a cruiser in it, now an airplane plant.

Their mission accomplished, the planes headed for China, but pi-lots and navigators knew by that time they would never reach their destinations.

"It was upon leaving Japan that the most hazardous part of the venture was reached," the account continued. "The scattered air-planes ran into a storm. Their already depleted gasoline reserves were drained further as they bucked the winds.

"Darkness was coming on and the unfamiliar terrain added to the difficulties. There were no light beacons or landing flares. Unable to go farther, there in the darkness 6,000 to 10,000 feet above a strange land, the great majority of the men bailed out."

Most of the men landed in un-occupied China and made their way to Chungking. Some landed in the occupied region, resulting in the capture of the eight. Oth-ers, some of them wounded, made their way to safety with the aid of friendly Chinese.

Seven were injured in crashes but survived. Corporal Leland D. Faktor, of Plymouth, Ia., bailed out and although his parachute opened he was found dead in mountainous territory. The army said he may have suffered a sec-ondary fall.

The war department explained that "preoccupation in bringing American fliers to safety was the principal reason why no detailed statement was issued after the raid."

"If the secret could always have been kept from the Japanese—which in the end was impossible—it would naturally have added to the tension with which Japan awaits the attacks that still lie ahead," the army said in conclu-sion.

Describes Take-Off Of Tokyo Raiders

By RICHARD TREGASKIS
(INS Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE U. S. PACIFIC FLEET AT SEA—Shangri-La—(Delayed)—(INS)—It can now be revealed how a U. S. naval aircraft carrier launched the swift, two-motored army bombers which raided Tokyo, for the first time in history.

This amazing feat of army-navy collaboration was accomplished during a heavy storm within 800 miles of Tokyo in an area infested by Japanese patrol craft.

I witnessed the dramatic sight as 16 great, landlubbery planes—the celebrated B-25 type—weighing 12 tons each took off from the pitching, rolling deck of the carrier while great waves crashed on the bow of the ship and washed over the flight deck. This daring, ingenious idea was carried out in broad daylight.

(An official war department an-nouncement in Washington identi-fied the aircraft carrier from which the planes were launched as the U. S. S. Hornet, since lost in the battle of Santa Cruz in the South Pacific.)

These large army planes, with tricycle gear, never used in ordin-ary carrier operations, waddled along the deck, staggered into the air, nearly stalling and struggled for altitude over mountainous seas.

They were heavily loaded with incendiaries, Molotov breadbaskets and high explosives, besides extra gasoline for the long flight for Tokyo and beyond to the secret landing point.

Our sailors cheered loudly and waved farewell as the planes passed so close we could see some of the gunners busy in the trans-parent turrets. We could also see the star and insignia letters, "U. S. Army," under the wings.

Before the last plane disappear-ed, our ship swung sharply in a U-turn toward home. The carrier followed now and our task force was hightailing, full speed for home, with all bombers launched with no casualties.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Playing with borrowed clubs, News-Journal A-league golfer Pfc. Johnny Kleshinski really is hitting the ball these days down in Puerto Rico. Here is one soldier the golfers won't be taking picks at when the war is over.

But John is right there on the scene, so let's let him tell the story:

Dear Rex: Now that I'm started, I'm stalled already. Seems every time I sit down to write a letter, my mind goes over the hill.

A little over a week ago I got up enough nerve to go to the 1st Sgt. and ask permission to see the B. C. about playing a little more golf.

Since the golf course is so close, he gave me every Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday afternoon off, and from 4:30 until dark if I wish.

He also gave me a membership with paid back fees, which cost me 25 cents a month. Caddie fees are 25 cents for nine holes.

* * *

It's a tough course, and only nine holes. Saturday afternoon I had a 35, and Sunday a 34. The sergeant at the club lets me use his Bobby Jones irons and Byron Nelson woods.

Yesterday afternoon we had a few boys for a gallery. A friend of mine from Cleveland, who is also a good friend of Al Leach, the former national publinks champion, was playing with me. His name is Tony Iarussi, and he is a tough customer. I had him one down each day.

The course is operated by the army, and played mostly by officers.

Last Friday night Mel Alacca and I went dancing to the music of Raphael Munoz, another Xavier Cugat.

It sure is swell to dance outdoors in the moonlight. Especially with the beautiful senoritas of the tropics. Adios amigo.

As ever,
Johnny.

* * *

P. S.—I had 12 pars, two birdies, one eagle, and of course three bogeys in the two days I played. Par is 70 and I had 69. Tony had 72.

Coach Happy In War Job

Hopes His Gridders Get Munitions He Makes.

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— That studious-looking, bespectacled young man laboring so industriously at the Wayne Iron Works, is no less a person than George Munger—the same Mr. Munger known around the Penn campus as Football Coach Munger.

Covered from head to foot with grease and grime, George took a few minutes off from threading two-foot steel tie-rods to explain that he was happy - happy because "maybe Len Warner (end on the 1941 team) will be getting some of this stuff in Tunisia tomorrow,' and happy because the job pays 60 cents an hour.

"And boy, will I be glad when pay day comes around," he quipped.

Munger works at his job from seven in the morning until noon, and reports on the Penn campus daily at 1:30 p. m.

Understand, I go home tired at night and I've had to go to dinner Billy Morris twice for a two-dozen, but it makes you feel important when you know that these parts are going to help our boys at the front.

The tie-rods he makes are used for searchlight mountings and on tanks.

Mrs. Munger and Grebille, their four-year-old son are prouder of Munger's war work than they are of his football achievements.

"Despite his dirty hands and the way he leaves the washbowl, I'm proud of him," the coach's lady declared.

Little Grebille, playing with a toy tank, looked at it from a different angle.

"My Daddy can fix this, now," he said as he broke one of the toys.

George was a little uncertain about the football prospects at Penn.

"We won't be able to do anything until July 1, when the navy students report. And then we'll have to do everything in one hour, because that's all the drill time naval regulations will permit the cadets."

"But I'm not worrying," he said optimistically. "If things go wrong I will have my job at 60 cents an hour."

Edwards Only Rook In Lineup

Ex-Mansfield Brave Starts For Indians Today.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Eight veterans are included in the Cleveland Indians' lineup for the American league opener here today with the Detroit Tigers.

* * *

Two of the starters, Outfielder Roy Cullenbine and Catcher Warren (Buddy) Rosar are appearing in tribal regalia for the first time, and one, Otto Denning, is at a new position, first base. Centerfielder Hank Edwards is the lone recruit.

* * *

Jeff Heath, who has had only two days of practice since he ended his long holdout fight, was given the left field assignment by Manager Lou Boudreau; Rosar is replacing Gene Desautels, whose right wrist was bruised by a pitched ball in an exhibition game at Cincinnati Sunday.

Heath took a long workout at the Stadium yesterday, hit the ball as solidly as any member of the team and pronounced himself ready and eager to play.

Jim Bagby, who defeated Detroit in the opener last year is the Cleveland moundsman. Tommy Bridges, veteran right hander, is the probable Tiger hurler.

The Detroit pilot, Steve O'Neill, views this year's pennant chase as a five-team race.

"Cleveland, New York, Boston, St. Louis and Detroit should make it a race all the way, with perhaps some trouble from Washington, which seems to be an improved club," the stout Irishman opined.

REDS MEET CARDS

CINCINNATI —(AP)—The world champion St. Louis Cardinals are here today for a ball game with the Cincinnati Reds, and if there's any justice in this cockeyed world, Johnny Vander Meer is the winner.

It's the opening day of a season that may never see September, but tradition is to be served, weather permitting, and 30,000 people propose to be on hand by 2:30 p. m. (EWT), when Vander Meer fires the first pitch at Jimmy Brown. Morton Cooper is the Cardinal ace opposing Vandy.

For Vandy himself pitching the opener is an honor earned after four years. In 1938 he was going great guns and had his two no-hit games. So he naturally pitched the first game of 1939. He was knocked out of the box and scarcely had a good game all year, even though his team won its first pennant in 20 years.

The next year was no better and after a few tries, he went to Indianapolis to regain his control. But he's been on the comeback ever since, winning 18 games last year against 12 losses, and today he gets a chance to show Manager Bill McKechnie that he's worth all the patience and faith.

It may be his chance, too. Before long Johnny will be in one of Uncle Sam's uniforms.

The Cardinals take the field with hardly a reasonable facsimile of the team that beat the New York Yankees in the World series.

Coaches Take Over For Injured Casey

BOSTON —(INS)— Manager Casey Stengel of the Boston Braves today was recuperating from injuries resulting from an automobile accident in the Back Bay district early yesterday morning.

* * *

The club physician after examining X-rays said that Stengel suffered bad fractures of both bones in the lower part of his right leg.

* * *

Meanwhile Quinn said that George Kelly and Bob Coleman, coaches, would run the club until Stengel is able to take over.

CITY ASSOCIATION BOWLS ON THURSDAY

2,000 SOFTBALL TEAMS PLAY AT GREAT LAKES

GREAT LAKES, Ill. —(AP)— Softball teams at the Great Lakes naval training station will not have to leave their base for competition.

A program is being arranged for about 2,000 teams, to be made up into several leagues. About 150 fields are available.

First Ball's Tossed Out; Season's on

Paul V. McNutt, War Manpower commissioner, is pictured here in the act of tossing out the first baseball to start the 1943 major league season which got under way when the Philadelphia Athletics and the Washington Senators clashed in Griffith stadium in the nation's capital. Left of McNutt is Mrs. McNutt. On the right are Manager Connie Mack of the Athletics and Owner Clark Griffith of the Senators. McNutt substituted for President Roosevelt who is on tour.

Moose Keglers Double Sked

Managers Break 3-Way Deadlock For First.

Moose keglers last night began doubling up their schedule for an early closing date.

Managers broke the three-way tie for first place, turning in a shutout victory while Secretaries and Pilgrims each scored 2-1 wins and dropped into a deadlock for second.

* * *

J. Daum took scoring honors with a 606 total, while Harold LeMunyon who has been hobbling around on crutches most of the winter, tolled high game of 249 in a 601 series.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Lew Fonseca has whittled out a series of instructive sequences from the various American league films shot since 1934 and will take them on a month's tour of army camps to show Uncle Sam's soldiers the right way to play baseball . . . Eventually he hopes to build up a "technical instruction library," which the league will lend to high school, college and service coaches.

$64 ANSWER

When Fred Corcoran, former professional golfers' association tournament manager now working for the Red Cross in England, put on one of his popular sports quizzes recently he asked: "What golfer made the grand slam?"

The answer came from a negro soldier: "Sam Snead. I was caddying for him in Atlanta when he bust a drive 350 yards. What a grand slam!"

Supplies Enter Baseball Loop

Three Teams Ready For Mansfield Schedule.

A third team was added to the proposed four-team Y.M.C.A. Commercial Baseball league yesterday when Ira Keehbler, of the Mansfield Athletic Supply, agreed to back a team which will consist mainly of players from last year's Mansfield Travelers nine.

* * *

Johnny Heckert, who will manage the Supply outfit, has called a practice session for 5:30 p. m. Thursday at Liberty Park. Heckert requests that members of the Travelers and any other players interested report.

* * *

Heckert said he has seven players already lined up. They are Pegnato, Hosille, Rod Hartman, Ken Lockhart, Red Creech, Howard Poole, Jack Flood and Ken Long. These boys, with the exception of Poole, performed for the Travelers last season.

The other two teams already in the fold will be backed by Mansker's and a group of west end business men.

PAUL SARRINGHAUS JOINS ARMY RESERVE

CINCINNATI — (UP) — Ohio State university's football team, champion of the Big Ten last fall, boasted another blue star on its service flag today for Paul Sarringhaus.

A halfback on the squad last year, Sarringhaus was inducted yesterday at Fort Thomas as a member of the enlisted army reserve corps.

Senators Subdue A's In Diamond Opener

Other Big League Teams Lift Seasonal Lid In Today's Tilts.

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

SPRING IS HERE! All the people who have been doubting it for various reasons, especially the weather, had to be convinced today because the baseball season is now open.

The Washington Senators subdued the Philadelphia Athletics, 7-5, yesterday in the nation's capital and took over first place in the American league for at least one day, leaving it up to the other major league clubs to do as well in their openers today.

The formal bow for the National and American leagues as a whole called for this program:

National—St. Louis at Cincinnati, New York at Brooklyn, Pittsburgh at Chicago and Philadelphia at Boston.

American — Washington at New York, Boston at Philadelphia, Detroit at Cleveland and Chicago at St. Louis.

In winning the inaugural in Griffith stadium the Senators confirmed the suspicions of many observers that play this season would be more slovenly, that the ball is "more dead," that crowds in midweek will be smaller and that Washington is improved over last year.

The turnout for the inaugural was the smallest in many years at Washington, 25,093, and the game itself was a stumbling affair with the Senators making three errors and the Athletics calling on four hurlers.

The game's longest hit was a two-bagger, but the Senators managed to push across six runs in a big sixth-inning rally.

The Athletics combed Emil (Dutch) Leonard, the veteran knuckleballer, for six hits and three runs before he was removed for a pinchhitter in the fourth inning and Alejandro Carrasquel, the Venezuelan, received credit for the victory.

* * *

Luman Harris started on the mound for the A's, as shakily as Leonard, and was belted out in the sixth when the Senators bunched five hits and sent a dozen batters to the plate in a six-run outbreak.

The Senators, who now boast the heaviest hitting outfield in the major, collected 12 safeties to Philadelphia's eight.

Diners Take Matinee Title

Schmutzler's Miss Good Chance For Crown.

Max Diners won the championship of the women's Tuesday Matinee bowling league with a margin of only one game over Schmutzler's Cafe as the loop closed its season yesterday at Colony alleys.

Schmutzler's missed a great chance to cop the title as the league leaders were blanked by Provident Loans, but the Cafes also were being defeated, 1-2, by Office Cafe.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 21, 1943.

Now's the time to hop on the bond wagon.

A look at the North African theater indicates that Rommel's Dead-End Kids are now approaching a dead end.

It takes all kinds of people—including at least one who awakens everybody in the neighborhood by honking an auto horn at 4:30 a. m. to arouse a share-the-rider.

President Roosevelt On Another Trip

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S secret jaunt through the southwest and into Mexico lacks the dramatic touch he was able to give to the first of such venturesome journeys last September, when no publication of his inspection trip to the west coast was made until he was safely back in Washington.

The president's flair for the element of surprise is again being evidenced, and his obvious enjoyment of the opportunity to appear unexpectedly at training camps and note the astonishment of people who suddenly find the nation's chief executive in their midst probably provides relaxation from the arduous duties of his high office.

As in the case of his first cross-country inspection trip and later flight to the Casablanca conference, newspapers were confidentially informed of the present trip, and there was no breach of faith in the matter of publication of any part of the story in advance of release, even in cities visited by Mr. Roosevelt, although the fact of his presence must have been known by hundreds of thousands of people, making "secrecy" fictitious instead of actual.

Traveling as commander-in-chief of the nation's armed forces, President Roosevelt is entitled to as much military secrecy as he, and those who are charged with guarding his safety, deem necessary, and it is in their desire to co-operate fully in the national war effort that newspapers act as a unit in withholding publication of news of these trips until officially released.

Except for the opportunity thus given for a personal conference with the president of Mexico, however, and the possible morale-building effect of his visits to some of the training camps, justification for a trip such as this is not apparent at a time when muddled conditions in Washington evidence desperate need for leadership and intelligent direction.

One impression gained by President Roosevelt during this trip, on which he placed considerable emphasis, is that "people throughout the United States are away ahead of Washington . . . that they have a much better sense of proportion and a better sense of perspective than they do in the nation's capital."

It may well be regretted that information to this effect was so long delayed in reaching the president—and it may now be hoped that through him, or through other channels, a similar impression can be made upon congressmen, senators, and some other government officials who seem sadly in need of "a better sense of proportion and a bett sense of perspective."

Recollections of Lincoln's Rival

ABRAHAM LINCOLN, never far from American thoughts, is brought close again on April 23. That is the birthday anniversary of his great rival, Stephen A. Douglas. The rivalry between Lincoln and Douglas ranks with that between Jefferson and Hamilton, and Jackson and Clay, as one of the great contentions that have altered American history.

In this rivalry the advantage for a long time was with Douglas. He was in congress at 30; Lincoln at the same age was only in the state legislature. At 38 Lincoln was in congress, but Douglas had gone on to the senate. At 39 Douglas nearly won the presidency, while Lincoln was out of office, a disappointed man. In two things Lincoln won: both wanted to marry Mary Todd, and both wanted to be president.

Douglas lost the presidency because he tried to keep a middle ground between the friends and foes of slavery. No friend of slavery, he thought that institution if left alone would die a natural death, and that agitation would mean civil war and an unknown outcome. In the light of after knowledge, who shall say that he was wrong?

The greatest man except Lincoln to come out of Illinois, Douglas is interwoven with him in American memories. Had he not died at the untimely age of 48, he also might have become president. But perhaps no possible achievement of his in the White House could have been greater than his service in rallying his supporters, opponents of Lincoln, behind the cause of the Union.

Farm Problems Must Be Localized

A COMMON-SENSE approach to the problems of food supply and farm production is made by Louis Bromfield, Richland county author-farmer and recent appointee to the state conservation commission.

Speaking before the Mansfield Rotary club yesterday, Bromfield emphasized what seems obvious to everybody except Washington bureaucrats—that farm production problems are state and local, not national, and that their solution depends on ability to surmount the difficulties encountered in each of widely-varied areas rather than on a grandiose program developed in Washington for nation-wide application.

In Richland and adjoining counties, for instance, there must be a locally handled program designed to meet the specific needs of this section, in matters of labor, machinery, fertilizer, stock food and other requirements of successful and profitable farm operation.

A gloomy picture of potential farm production for this year is painted by Bromfield, unless radical changes are made from present federal mismanagement of this vital industry.

While neither Richland county nor the state of Ohio is in position to do more than suggest ways in which to improve farm conditions over the entire country, this county and state can go far in making local application of some of the sound principles now being publicized by Mr. Bromfield and other practical thinkers on agricultural subjects, and can thus contribute a creditable share in meeting the nation's food needs.

From his vantage point as a permanent White House guest, Harry Hopkins turns out one magazine article after another telling Americans to accept hardships cheerfully.

Let's hope that the shortage of lubricants will not cut the supply of "elbow grease" below the point needed to care for Victory gardens.

Allied Air Supremacy In Tunisia Responsible for Rommel's Plight

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

THAT'S a magnificent job of spade work the Anglo-American air fleets are doing over northern Tunisia to prepare the way for the final assault by the Allied armies on the last-stand defenses of the Axis in this small corner of Africa.

We should have a far different picture in Tunisia today were it not for this tremendous airpower which is destroying enemy bases, communications, supplies, reinforcements and warplanes. The Axis forces probably could hold out indefinitely. Indeed, but for the rapidly growing strength of the United Nations air forces, Marshal Rommel likely would still be holding his own in the Libyan desert, far from his present predicament.

Supremacy in the air over Africa has entirely altered the situation for the Allies. A flash of what it means is seen in the statement by our General Carl Spaatz, Allied air chief in the northwest Africa theater, who said our forces had shot down 519 Axis planes since March 20 against a loss of 175, and had destroyed nearly 1,000 enemy planes on the ground.

Within the few hours after Spaatz made that announcement his boys added another string of planes shot down and Commander in Chief Eisenhower's headquarters reported that Allied planes had destroyed a two-day total of 112 Axis machines, including 70 great transports.

WERE it not for the Allied air superiority, Rommel's position now would be fairly impregnable. He is sitting on a coastal plain inside a vast natural fortress. At his back is the Mediterranean, with the great ports of Bizerte and Tunis for bases. Protecting him on all other sides is a range of mountains which swings about him in a huge arc some 125 miles in length, from coast to coast.

Within this amphitheater near Tunis stood that great commercial city of antiquity, Carthage. And across the coastal plain were waged fierce battles until finally the proud city was destroyed by the Arabs under Hassan in 647 A. D.

The Allied armies are standing outside that arc. The only way they can get at Rommel is to force their way through gaps in the mountains, or up the coastal road which runs through Enfidaville in front of General Montgomery's famous Eighth army.

Actually we probably shall see several Allied forces driving at Tunis and Bizerte simultaneously through different valleys. However, that represents a difficult and costly job, for the enemy has fortified and heavily mined all routes through the mountains and, as things now look, will make a strong defense.

Forcing the mountain gaps is a task which must be done by infantry. The air can help, of course, by preventing supplies and reinforcements from reaching the Axis defenders, but the Axis defenses hidden among the natural concealments of the mountains aren't easy to reach with bombs. The ground forces will have to batter their way through.

Once the Allied offensive is under way, our air-forces will make it their business to keep the Axis cut off from all reinforcements and supplies by sea or by air. Anglo-American warplanes also will try to render useless the numerous Axis air fields which still exist on the coastal plain, and thus prevent enemy warplanes from getting at the attacking Allied troops.

Health and Diet — By DR. CLENDENING

Bad Eating Habits

LAST summer I was surprised to hear from the director of a large clinic that is devoted to digestive and nutritional disorders that he found deficiency disease more frequently in those in the upper income brackets than among those of moderate means.

This experience is confirmed by a report from two Philadelphia physicians. They deliberately selected patients who were in the upper income group, gave them a questionnaire about their diet, had them take it home and put down what they ate at every meal and then return from week to week and have these questionnaires checked as to what materials they made their salad dressings with, the amount of sugar and cream they used in their coffee, and the like.

Startling Results.

The results are startling: 74 per cent of the patients showed a deficiency in total food intake, some of them as much as 50 per cent. In only one particular kind of food did this group regularly show an excess intake and that was in the use of fats: 88 per cent of them got too much fat—on the average about 20 per cent too much.

Thirty per cent of the patients took less protein than scientific dietetics believes is the proper ration.

In nearly all the diets the vitamins were deficient, the largest amount being in the B group.

There was a slight mineral deficiency in calcium, phosphorus and iron, and some water deficiency.

Sixty-nine per cent of the patients were short on roughage, which indicates why this country uses so many cathartics.

A Theoretical Basis.

I think it should be explained, however, that the vitamin deficiency is calculated on a basis of the amounts they ought to have, a basis which I believe is theoretical: in other words, one which I do not believe is sufficiently well-established scientifically to make this part of the report alarming.

None of these patients were under medical supervision, and in spite of the fact that 20 of them were physicians, it must be concluded that ignorance was the cause of bad eating habits in most cases.

It appears that even when people can afford to eat whatever they want, when they are not under direct medical supervision they leave out milk, eggs, whole wheat and enriched grain products too frequently from their diet.

This class tends to swing from being overweight to a conscientious fear that they should diet. When you catch them doing their dieting, they take less than they need. When, with a sigh of relief, they find the scales have them in normal limits, they plunge on fats.

Timely Editorial

Danger on the Home Front.

J. Edgar Hoover's report on an "alarming upswing in crime among women and girls" calls attention to a serious wartime situation. Boom conditions and "easy money" in the hands of youthful persons and a possible letdown in the influence of the home are cited by the FBI director as causes of the 55 per cent increase in arrests of girls under 21 last year as compared with pre-war years of 1939-41. Arrests of boys and girls 18 years of age predominated in the frequency of arrests for the first time since 1932.

While it is easier to blame this rise in delinquency on the war, the responsibility must be traced to those parents and to the community whose relaxation of discipline or neglect has permitted this unhealthy condition to develop. In the exigencies of wartime, we may forget that the cornerstone of all we are fighting to defend is the American home and the boys and girls growing up in that home. — Akron Beacon Journal.

Food Parley Secrecy Contrasted With Limelight on Rio Meeting

WASHINGTON—Things the president might remember about diplomacy and freedom FROM the press:

Most successful diplomatic conference in recent years was held in Rio De Janeiro a little over a year ago when all but two American republics went to bat for the U. S. A. and severed relations with the Axis. For some governments this was not easy. But one factor which made it impossible to do otherwise was the power of public opinion stirred up by the power of the press.

The Rio conference was held in an atmosphere of frank, open, sweating diplomacy. Newsmen crowded into caucus rooms, talked with delegates during sessions, held press conferences with Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles twice a day. Welles was absolutely frank. So were other delegates. They knew that so long as their goal was altruistic the press could be of immense value.

As a matter of fact, so powerful was the influence of those great newspapers La Prensa, La Nacion and La Critica in Argantina that their pro-American dispatches nearly caused a political turnover against their isolationist President Castillo.

Note: The president has barred newsmen from the hotel where the food conference will be held at Hot Springs, Va., fearing news crumbs might fall from delegates. But at Rio De Janeiro, Sumner Welles and the American delegation occupied the same hotel not only with newsmen but with the Japanese naval attache, whose country had just crippled our battleships at Pearl Harbor.

Straws In the Wind.

THINGS the public might remember about the president's new yen for freedom from the press:

1. White House intimates say F.D.R. plans to hold the peace conference in the Azores, heart of the Atlantic. This would mean that no newsman or representative of the public could get anywhere near the conference, called to write what we hope is lasting peace, without a passport from the state department, also without transportation on government controlled planes.

2. Every international conference since Casablanca has followed the president's new inspiration of isolated location, inaccessible to the press. The refugee conference in Bermuda will tax overburdened airplanes merely to transport delegates. The state department can argue that no space will be available for the press.

3. Inside fact is that many in the state department wanted to hold the food conference at Saratoga, N. Y., because Virginia liquor laws will be hard for some delegates to take. But despite liquor restrictions, Hot Springs was chosen because the hotel is far from any town, can be so completely isolated from press and public. The Saratoga hotels are right on the main streets where it would be a simple matter for delegates to slip out for a minute or two and drop a hint to newsmen if anyone were giving the food conference the works.

4. When Collier's Weekly got permission from the army and navy to publish a full account of the Tokyo bombing raid written by an officer who participated, it was the president himself who, nearly a year after the raid, ruled for secrecy.

Small Farmers.

FRIENDS of Big Farmer Champion Ed O'Neal of the Farm Bureau say he is obsessed with the desire to kill completely the Farm Security Administration, chief champion of Small Farmers. Not only does Ed call it "Socialistic," but he has even wrangled with other Big Farm groups, including Charles Teague, president of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, in order to put the FSA out of business.

Teague came to Washington with a plan for importing Mexican labor to harvest citrus fruit in California and Arizona. At that time, the house of representatives was proposing to transfer power from Farm Security to Extension Service, which would have upset a contract with Mexico, already negotiated, for importing farm labor.

Fruit Grower Teague was sure that if congress hamstrung the Farm Security Administration, the Mexican government would buck at negotiating a new labor contract, and there would be costly delays to California fruit growers. So Teague wanted the Mexicans imported under the existing contract.

But Ed O'Neal got to him, urged him to hold back. He admitted Teague's plan would work, but said he didn't want it put through until after congress had finished hamstringing the Farm Security Administration. In short he wanted to embarrass the FSA more than he wanted to bring in Mexican labor to help California fruit growers.

Fruit Grower Teague is no radical, but he was disgusted. He boiled over in a letter to Governor Earl Warren of California, packed his bags and went home.

Shipping Waste.

BEHIND the scenes, the Truman committee is sharply critical of the War Shipping Administration for failing to crack down on big ship owners who have not expedited shipping to our fighting forces.

The Truman committee now has before it some sensational testimony by members of the CIO National Maritime Union about a near mutiny on a merchant ship owned by the Grace Lines, in September of last year.

Union officials have informed the committee that this ship, loaded with munitions and supplies for an American force in the New Hebrides Islands, was laid up at an island port for 51 days without unloading.

When crew members went to the captain and volunteered their services free to assist native longshoremen in unloading the ship, the captain told them to mind their own business. It was not until crew members held a secret meeting, and formed a committee to demand immediate action by the captain, that he agreed to the unloading of the ship.

Note: Probably other factors caused the delay, but the government was paying the Grace Lines at the rate of about $1,000 a day for operation of the ship on a time-charter basis, which meant about $51,000 for the 51 days she remained unloaded in the New Hebrides.

British Giving Rommel Main Squeeze; Throbbing With Vitality of Conquerors.

NORTHERN TUNISIA—(By Wireless)—Now we have left Central Tunisia behind us. We are in the north now, Americans as well as British, and the end of the long Tunisian trail is in sight. Surely the kill cannot now be long delayed.

Except in the air, the American troops are playing a rather minor part in this final act. In the air we are all-out, and great formations of American planes are overhead constantly. But on the ground it is the British Eighth and First armies who are giving Rommel the main squeeze. The troops have been so distributed for this last phase that the Americans and the French are holding only a small slice of the quarter-circle that is penning the Germans into the Tunis corner.

ERNIE PYLE

True, we will do some hard fighting, but the bulk of the knock-out blow on the ground will be British.

You at home will be wrong if you try to make anything sinister out of that, for it's the way it should be, as I tried to tell you once before.

The British have more troops, and more experienced troops, in Tunisia than we have. We had sort of divided the load earlier, but with the arrival of the Eighth army the affair has become predominantly British.

Since Montgomery has chased Rommel all the way from Egypt in one of the great military achievements of history, it is only right that the British should have the kill.

THE EIGHTH ARMY is a magnificent organization. We correspondents have been thrilled by its perfection. So have our troops. It must surely be one of the outstanding armies of all time. We trailed it several days up the Tunisian coast, and we came to look upon it almost with awe.

Its organization for continuous movement is so perfect that it seems more like a big-business firm than a destructive army. The men of the Eighth are brown-skinned and white-eyebrowed from the desert sun. Most of them are in shorts, and they are a healthy-looking lot. Their spirit is like a tonic. The spirits of our own troops is good, but these boys from the burning sands are throbbing with the vitality of conquerors.

They are friendly, cocky, and confident. They've been three years in the desert, and now they wear the expression of victory on their faces. We envy them, and are proud of them.

THIS north country is entirely different from the semi-desert where we Americans spent the winter. Up here the land is fertile and everything is violently green.

Northern Tunisia is all hills and valleys. There are no trees at all, but now in spring the earth is solidly covered with deep green—pastures and freshly growing fields of grain. Small wild flowers spatter the countryside.

I have never seen lovelier or more gentle country. It gives you a sense of peacefulness. It seems to speak its richness to you. It is a full, ripe country, and here in the springtime living seems sweet and worth-while.

There are winding gravel roads everywhere, and many roads of find macadem. Villages are perched on the hillsides, and some of them look like picture postcards.

This is all so different from the Tunisia we've known that all of us, driving up suddenly one sunny afternoon into this clean cool greeness, felt life holding out our arms and saying: "This is the country we love."

Yet this peaceful green is gradually turning red with blood. The roads are packed with brown-painted convoys, and the trailers sprout long rifle barrels. The incredibly blue sky with its big white clouds is streaked with war planes in great throbbing formations. And soon the whole northeastern corner of Tunisia will roar and rage with a violence utterly out of character with a landscape so rich in nature's kindness.

The only thing we can say in behalf of ourselves is that the human race even in the process of defiling beauty still has the capacity to appreciate it.

A Farmer's Diary — By CALVIN A. BYERS

The Force Within

I WENT to the woodpile after dark to get some solid sticks to bank the fire. Hefting the pieces in search of oak and hickory, I paused to notice that the wind had changed. A light skiff of melting snow lay on the ground—the trees on the hill were tossing their bare limbs—yet beneath and below the stormy air a springy tang was telling of stirring sap and bursting buds and warmth to follow.

I breathed deep of the moist, earthy snow smell that hung in the valley air, and thought of woods flowers under rotting leaves, of garden peas just sprouted, of misty green upon the snow-spangled lettuce bed. I stood by the woodpile and looked up to the stars—thought how many soldier boys could see them too, from far off battle stations . . . remembered sailors on the seas, workers in the night shifts of war factories, air men and railroad engineers and coast guards, each intent upon his nightly duty.

I looked to where the orchard hills met the clear night sky and was glad for the farm in spring, when the future is full of hope. Men are so small—such little lives in a world so big and so full of creative force. The greatest forces unseen, misunderstood, largely untapped—like wind and tide and sunshine and sprouting seeds and love of God and that magic green in the leaves of plants that changes all it touches into food and life.

I stooped and placed my hand beneath the clods at the garden's edge, below the snow. There was a pleasant warmth as if a welcome friend had grasped it. Darkness there I knew below that reach but I thought I felt an upward surge of life that no hand could stay . . . a strange restlessness that groped upward to the light, clod and root and worm.

This earth is part of me for I live by it, and upon it. It is the cause of the graceful bending maples that arch above me and of the yellow jonquils at their roots. This fertile earth is the reason I hear the rumbling trains beyond the hill, the wind that roars over the slope—it has built the scattered acres of defense plants and feeds our boys across the seas. Even the airplane that moves through the trackless sky, the giant ships in convoy all move by the mysterious force within the lowly soil.
